RUNAWAY FORKLIFT — A garage door teeters precariously and a forklift juts through the roof of a Novato home, as its occupant, Frank E. Hardy, watches firemen and workmen clear away the mess.

Runaway Lift Careens Into Home

A runaway fork lift smashed into the garage of a Novato home yesterday and knocked the family car into a kitchen wall splitting it open.

The fork lift, owned by Pacific Supply Co. of Santa Rosa, crashed into the home of Harry E. Hardy of 560 Arlington Circle at 8:35 a.m., according to Fire Chief Jack Kidder.

Mr. and Mrs. Hardy, who were asleep in a bedroom at the other end of the house, were uninjured.

"We were both awakened out of a sound sleep," Hardy said. "It was really moving when it hit."

Looking at the spot where the kitchen wall had smashed against the table, his wife, Dorothy, said they were lucky they weren't there having breakfast at the time.

The lift was about 100 yards uphill from the Hardy home being towed by a truck loaded with sheet rock when the tow bar broke, Kidder said.

The truck driver, Robert Nelson Reading, 29, of Santa Rosa, told police he heard the tow bar snap, jumped out of his truck, and caught the fork lift, but was unable to steer or stop it.

He jumped from the lift when it was about 60 feet from the Hardy garage, police reported.

The upper part of the lift tore several feet into the garage roof while the body hit the Hardy's car which crashed into a washing machine and the kitchen wall.

Kidder estimated the damage at $5,000 to the building and $3,500 to the contents.

CHAOS IN THE GARAGE — Hardy inspects the family auto, which was damaged front and rear in the freak mishap early yesterday.

No Endorsement Vote By AFL-CIO

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The AFL-CIO Executive Council, acceding to President Meany's request, decided today not to endorse either Sen. George McGovern or President Nixon in this year's election. .

"I will not endorse, I will not support and I will not vote for Richard Nixon as President," Meany told reporters later. "I will not endorse, I will not support and I will not vote for George McGovern for President."

The 77-year-old Meany refused to detail why he opposed McGovern, saying only that "We don't think he's good material for labor."

Some members of the Council have said they plan to support McGovern and Meany said individual unions would be free to make their own decisions on which candidates to support or whether to remain neutral.

Meany said all of the AFL-CIO's political funds would be channeled into Senate and House this fall to try to ensure election of members friendly to labor.

When a reporter reminded Meany that a year ago he had said the most important thing this year was to dump Nixon, Meany said he had changed his mind "because a man by the name of George McGovern got the Democratic presidential nomination."

Meany and his AFL-CIO associates led an unsuccessful fight at last week's Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach to block McGovern's nomination.

Despite Meany's adamant opposition, an unknown number of the union presidents who serve on the AFL-CIO council plan to support the Democratic ticket in November.

But as a salve to Meany's pride and prestige, most of the council members who support McGovern probably will go along with Meany's expected request to have the AFL-CIO remain neutral in the presidential race, leaving it up to the 117 individual unions in the federation to make their own endorsements.

President Joseph Beirne of the Communications Workers of America, for instance, said last week that "I am a Democrat" who was for Hubert H. Humphrey, not against McGovern. Beirne was not expected to challenge Meany in the council, but may ask the CWA board to endorse McGovern.

However, one of the main dissenters to Meany, President Jerry Wurf of the 550,000-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, was expected to "fight as long as we can" to get an endorsement for McGovern, a Wurf aide said.

But even Wurf was reported to expect the council to accede to Meany and take a neutral stance in the presidential race.

McGovern Observes His 50th Birthday

CUSTER, S.D. (UPI)—Sen. George S. McGovern turned 50 today in the western mountains of his native state, seeking to identify himself at the outset of his presidential campaign with the pioneer stock that developed the area.

The Democratic nominee invited his staff, a few political associates and several dozen newsmen to a birthday party at the Sylvan Lake Lodge tonight. He was born July 19, 1922 in Mitchell, S.D., clear across the state in the flatlands.

Call For Less Fire Allocation

An unusual proposal calling for the City of Sausalito to stop spending money on additional firemen and firefighting equipment and concentrate instead on fire prevention was presented to the city council last night.

The council took no action on the recommendations which were greeted by applause from the audience, but agreed to study them further.

Fire Chief Robert L. Halon, who made the report despite plans to resign, told the council that, like most other cities, Sausalito has wrongly attempted to improve its fire defences by increased spending for fire suppression.

But Halon said more manpower, fire stations and bigger and better equipment does not guarantee that fire protections will be improved. And additional spending for these items usually will not lower fire insurance premiums for residents, he added.

"Even more importantly," according to the chief, "emphasizing suppression instead of prevention is at least dangerous and perhaps brushes near to criminal neglect of social and public responsibility."

Larger departments and more men do not insure that a city or its residents are adequately protected, Halon emphasized.

He went on to say the city should focus on "preventing fires before they ever have a chance to begin." What is needed, according to Halon, is a complete change in the city's department, shifting the emphasis to prevention activities.

To accomplish this, the chief recommended that the city:

1. Merge its building department with the fire department and train firemen to inspect buildings to see they conform with the strict fire codes which Halon suggests the city adopt.
2. Reapair and update alarm system, increase the number of volunteer firemen and revamp its current system for recalling firemen to duty in the event of a large blaze.
3. Train all public works employees in fire suppression work and have the fire chief and public works department head work together in prevention activities.
4. Place masonry walls between wooden buildings in downtown area to halt the spread of flames if a fire occurs.
5. Require that all new construction be fire resistant.
6. Require that all new major developments be constructed in such a way that efficient fire suppression is possible in the developments.
7. Pass ordinances requiring that all commercial buildings be equipped with full automatic sprinkler systems and fire detectors and that all residences have heat or smoke detectors and appropriate automatic fire alarms.
8. Make it mandatory that developers of all new construction install and pay for all necessary fire prevention and protection devices.
9. Require all new water main extension and enlargements be financed by the individuals who will benefit from the changes.
10. Strictly enforce building codes and ordinances relating to fire safety.
11. Take steps to see tht thatcomplete program of fire prevention activites is incorporated into the fire department.

Terra Linda Annex Hearing Set Aug. 9

LAFC Forum To Seek Possible Vote In Fall

By DAVID DIETZ

A decision on whether the 1,000-home Terra Linda community should merge with the City of San Rafaelwas left last night in the hands of the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFC) and Terra Linda voters.

After apparently tying up loose financial and procedural ends, the city council and the Terra Linda Community Services District board unanimously asked the LAFC to conduct an Aug. 9 hearing on the plan, with an eye toward a public vote Nov. 7.

The groups met for the second time in as many weeks in city hall, bringing annexation of Terra Linda to the city closer than at any point since 1961. At that time, 56 per cent of Terra Linda voters rejected annexation.

San Rafael's attempts to absorb the rectangular-shaped community had been fruitless since, with Terra Linda hopeful of maintaining a limited form of home rule.

But talks were resumed earlier this month in the wake of an LAFC decision that denied to the Terra Linda district potential tax revenue from a $12 million computer center planned off Highway 101.

A report to the council by Asst. City Mgr. William J. Bielser said Terra Lindans would enjoy a tax rate reduction from $1.48 per $100 of assessed valuation to between 80 and 90 cents if annexation were approved. He said this would mean an annual saving of $80 for the owner of a $36,000 home.

Terra Linda, with a population of about 4,000 (San Rafael has about 39,000 persons), has an assessed valuation of $9,189,000. according to Bielser's report.

Bielser, pointing out that annexation would not burden present city taxpayers but would result in increased services for Terra Lindans at lower cost, showed potential income from absorption at $145,849, against expenses of $148,500.

Income was broken down as $75,349 in property taxes, $60,000 in state assistance, $3,000 in sales tax revenue and miscellaneous revenue. Expenses would be incurred in maintenance and upgrading of five services,

Sadat's Reason For Russ Ouster—Renege On Arms

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Soviet military advisers poured out of Egypt today in a mass withdrawal which Cairo political sources said President Anwar Sadat ordered because Russia failed to deliver the weapons it promised.

As the Russians left they took with them gifts presented to them by Egyptian comrades. Customs agents searched them to make sure they were not carrying excess gold out of Egypt.

Sadat expelled the Soviet military personnel—believed to total some 20,000—because Moscow never came up with the war material it had pledged.

Specifically, the sources said, the Soviets' reluctance to give Egypt offensive weapons prompted the decision, which was made after Prime Minister Aziz Sidky went to Moscow last week in an attempt to get Kremlin leaders to change their minds.

The pullout by air and sea followed a reception Monday night for leading Soviet advisers with Egyptian War Minister Lt. Gen. Mohammed Ahmed Sadek thanking them for their services.

As they boarded their planes and ships for home, Egyptian military comrades presented the Russians personal souvenirs from Cairo bazaars, the sources said. The Russians were then searched by customs officials looking for any excess gold they might be carrying.

The Russians have been eager patrons of the Cairo gold market and customs procedures were ordered after a recent dispute at an Egyhtian airport involving a group of Soviet advisers and their families going home on rotation, the sources said. The Russians at first refused to be searched but when they did undergo frisking, customs agents found large quantities of gold on them. The incident led to tigher regulations.

There was little visible evidence of the withdrawal in Cairo where Soviet civilian advisers in such fields as agricultire, oil, industry and electricity went about their work unaffected by the military pullout.

As the Soviet military person-

New Probe Made Into EOC's Defunct Food Stamp Program

Federal and county auditors launched another probe yesterday into the financial affairs of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council, concentrating this time on its defunct food stamp sales program.

The new investigation stems from a reported $36,000 shortage in food stamp revenues and disclosure last week by a former employee that some of the missing funds may have been pumped into the agency's general account.

Under federal regulation, all revenues collected from food stamp sales must be deposited with a federal reserve bank within seven days.

The employee, food stamp manager Richard Nielsen, told the Independent-Journal some $26,000 was shifted to the agency's general account last month shortly after the county began proceedings to shut down the food stamp distribution.

The disclosure brought a call yesterday from county supervisors for further investigation into the agency which in April was cited for misusing about $100,000.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell told the board he had already assigned one of his aides to work withfederal auditors and said results may be known within two weeks.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, an outspoken critic of the anti-poverty agency and its bookkeeping procedures, said he was disturbed by the I-J article since it contradicted what the board had been told by EOC officials last week.

Chairman Peter R. Arrigoni, however, said he had recently received information supporting the newspaper account of the missing funds.

EOC Executive Director Alfred R. Conklin III had told the board last week he didn't know of the whereabouts of the missing funds but suggested the discrepancy might be an accounting error.

Nielsen, however, told the I-J that Conklin had ordered the $26,000 shifted to the general account on June 29 — weeks prior to his appearance before the board.

Nielsen protested the action and in a final memorandum to the new executive director said that "it is not an accounting problem, it is a matter of very serious mismanagement."

Kissinger Holding Private Viet Discussions In Paris

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinge is holding private talks in Paris today with North Vietnamese negotiators Le Duc Tho and Buan Thuy, the White House announced.

In a joint announcement with the North Vietnamese, the White House said that the President's national security affairs adviser is expected to return to Washington today. He flew to Paris Tuesday for the private sessions in an attempt to get the Paris peace talks moving again.

This was the first time that Kissinger's private meetings with the Communist negotiators have been announced while the sessions were under way. He last met in Paris with Le Duc Tho on May 2.

The United States and South Vietnam resumed talks with their Communist counterparts last Thursday. Tho arrived in the French capital last weekend and said he was ready to consider any new U. S. offer.

Ten days ago Kissinger told reporters in San Clemente, Calif., that there were indications that Hanoi was ready to resume negotiations with a new and responsive attitude.

At the time, Kissinger said he was hopeful but not optimistic.

Speculation arose that Kissinger was on another mission for Nixon when the President arrived back from the Western White House in California without Kissinger. The two men frequently travel together.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Supports McGovern

DALLAS (UPI) — Robert S. Strauss says he resigned as chairman of the Democratic Party's finance committee so that he could work more intimately in congressional campaigns, not because he dislikes the party's nominee, Sen. George McGovern.

"I intend to support the ticket from top to bottom," Strauss said yesterday. "I'll do what I'm asked to do."

He said the party's House and Senate campaign committees had asked for his help with the 1972 and 1974 campaigns and that he felt obligated to aid them.

Interior Aide Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of the Interior William T. Pecora died today at the George Washington University Hospital. He was 59.

Pecora, the No. 2 man in the department, was Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton's chief assistant and acting secretary in the latter's absence.

Pecora had undergone surgery for diverticulitis — an intestinal disorder — on June 26. But post-operative complications developed that required additional surgery.

Wallace Surgery

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Doctors said Gov. George C. Wallace would undergo a second operation today to drain an abscess in his abdomen.

A spokesman at the University of Alabama Hospital said the surgery would be similar to an operation performed on Wallace at Holy Cross Hospital in Silver Spring, Md., to drain an accumulation of pus from a bullet wound he received May 15 at a political rally.

"This development was not unexpected," the spokesman said. "The procedure is a continuation of the treatment begun by the governor's physicians in Maryland. The improved drainage is expected to promote healing and to speed up Gov. Wallace's overall recovery."

Gainsborough Sold

LONDON (UPI) — A hitherto unknown and unrecorded masterpiece by the 18th Century English portrait artist Thomas Gainsborough today brought a record auction price of $700,000.

The price paid at Sotheby's by the London dealer Colnaghi, acting for an English private collector, was a record for an English painting and for any English work of art.

The painting, a portrait of the Gravenor family, was put up for sale by the daughters of the late Maj. James Townshend in whose home it hung, unknown to the art world, for nearly half a century.

The two sisters, who asked not to be identified, said the family had always regarded it as a fake until they found an insurance valuation of the work dating from the 1930s.

Floods In Philippines

MANILA (UPI) — Devastating floods believed to be the Philippines' worst in 26 years stretched today from Manila 200 miles north across 14 Central and Northern Luzon provinces.

Authorities said the main portion of the Arnedo Dike in Pampanga Province on Luzon Island had collapsed, drowning at least 10 people. More than 1,000 houses were swept away when the dike in Canaba Town burst and flood-waters rose breast-deep in some sections of the province.

Methadone Attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration will ask Congress soon fo new laws to control a dramatic increase in the illegal use of methadone, a heroin substitute, the government's top narcotics lawman said today.

"It now seems clear that just as we are at last obtaining control over the barbiturates and amphetamines, the diversion of narcotic drugs and particularly methadone to illegal uses is rapidly increasing," said John E. Ingersoll, director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

"The increase in the last several years is so dramatic as to indicate that our present legal controls are inadequate," he said in testimony prepared for the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse.

The panel was to conclude three days of hearings today on drug advertising and the diversion of legitimate drugs to illicit channels.

Future Haze Hole?

DENVER (UPI) — A federal agency says the Grand Canyon could fill up with haze, and aspen groves on Colorado hillsides could be stripped of their leaves unless restrictions are placed on power-plant development in the West.

The report, revealed yesterday by the Denver Post, was issued by the Environmental Protection Agency in connection with a Southwest energy study commissioned by the Interior Department.

The Denver newspaper said the agency has tried to keep its comments out of public view by squelching a proposed news release on the report.

The report warned that fisheries in a four-state study area (Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico and Utah, could be destroyed by sulphate deposits which will find their way from the power plants to streams and watersheds.

Research Center Is Bombed In Beirut

BEIRUT (UPI) — A bomb exploded at the offices of the Palestine Research Center today, police said, injuring Dr. Anis Sayegha, the center director.

The blast also caused some damage to the building, police said.

New Met Director Dies In Car Crash

OLBIA, Sardinia (UPI) — Goeran Gentele, director of the New York Metropolitan Opera, and two of his daughters were killed yesterday when their car smashed into a cement truck on a road on the Italian island of Sardinia.

His wife and and another daughter were injured, police said.

Gentele, 55, a Stockholm native who has lived in New York since assuming the directorship of the Met last month, was vacationing at the Karim Aga Khan's Porto Cervo resort on the Sardinian Emerald Coast.

He rented a Fiat four-door sedan for a day's trip to the Maddalena peninsula. On the way back to Porto Cervo he tried to pass a slower car, and crashed into an onrushing truck loaded with cement.

Gentele and his daughters Beatrice, 15, and Anne, 21, who were sitting in the front seat, died instantly, police said.

"It was a straight stretch of road," a police spokesman said. "We don't understand how it happened."

A hospital spokesman later reported that Mrs. Gentele and her daughter were in satisfactory condition. "They are out of danger and doing well," the spokesman said.

GOERAN GENTELE
Vacationing in Sardinia

Gentele took over directorship of the Met from Sir Rudolf Bing a few weeks ago. He was to have started his first season as manager Sept. 19 with a production of "Carmen."

The family was due to return to New York Monday.

Tank-Led Northern Unit Fails To Slice Highway

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese troops yesterday beat back a tank-led North Vietnamese force 500 strong that tried to cut Highway 1 south of Quang Tri City, a U.S. adviser said today.

Capt. Gail Furrow, 32, of Urbana, Ohio, told UPI Correspondent Donald A. Davis that 300 Communist artillery and mortar rounds exploded in and around dug-in positions of the government's 11th parachute battalion before the pre-dawn attack began. Allied artillery-fire was called in immediately, pinning down the North Vietnamese infantry and causing the tanks to scatter and retreat, Furrow said.

Furrow told Davis the government troops killed 35 North Vietnamese at a cost of one paratrooper dead and eight wounded.

Shortly before dawn on the fringe of the city, another paratroop unit backed by artillery and air support battled a tank and artillery Communist force in some of the bloodiest fighting of the government counteroffensive, military spokesmen said.

The paratroopers killed 163 Communists, the Saigon command said, with government casualties listed as 10 dead.

In the air war over North Vietnam, military spokesmen said a U.S. F4 Phantom jet chasing a North Vietnamese MIG21 at 800 miles an hour only 50 feet off the ground shot the MIG down into a rice paddy 15 miles outside Hanoi.

Hollywood Holdup

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A robber took $863 from the office of the Screen Actors Guild Tuesday, demanding money in a note given to employe Beverly Kussoy, 21.

Rear Jet Doors Will Be Sealed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government has given the nation's airlines permission to seal the rear doors of three types of airlines to prevent hijackers from using them as escape hatches.

The Federal Aviation Administration action would end use of such doors on the Boeing 727, DC9 and BAC-111 as emergency exits as well.

The agency is studying a permanent rule change under which it would be required that the doors could be opened on the ground -but not while the aircraft is in flight. In the interim Tuesday's temporary ruling allows the airlines to seal the doors completely.

Trans World Airlines said the rear exits on 72 of its 727s have been "permanently" sealed while American Airlines said a modification was made on the rear doors of 100 of its 727s. Braniff also said it has sealed the rear door on its 727 fleet.

Six hijackers have used the rear exits of the 727 and the DC9 to leap from the aircraft after demanding ransom. Only one has escaped capture. In addition those two types of aircraft have been involved in seven other hijack-extortion attempts, all of which failed.

The FAA said there are approximately 1,000 727s, DC9s and BAC111s in service in the United States —about a third of the total U.S. commercial fleet.

Under the FAA action signs marking the rear doors as emergency exits and briefing material on the doors would be eliminated.

Her Honor On Maternity Leave

SOUTH BEND, Wash. (UPI) —The mayor's office is closed. Her honor is on maternity leave.

Mayor Katy Kimura, 24, gave birth to an eight-pound, three-ounce boy the past weekend.

Mrs. Kimura said she would be back at her desk soon and, in the meantime, she would check with her staff by telephone.

Letters Explain McGovern Stand

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In probably his fullest pronouncement on the subject, George McGovern said in March the United States would have a "clear right" to take military action against Noth Vietnam should it fail to return American prisoners of war following a U.S. withdrawal from Indochina.

While campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination that he won last week, McGovern spelled out his position on the POW issue in two lengthy letters and a speech to units of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia.

That policy appears to be consistent with the statements he made during the national convention — remarks which prompted militant antiwar demonstrators to accuse McGovern of hedging on his promise to have all American forces and prisoners home within 90 days after his inauguration, should he be elected.

In Miami Beach, McGovern added to the familiar pledge this paragraph:

"While I am fully confident that there would be no such need, I would also retain military capabilities in the region of Thailand and on the seas to signal and fulfill our firm determination on this issue."

The McGovern camp contended that his stated willingness to keep forces in Thailand—which is not part of Indochina—and off the coast was merely an elaboration of his previously expressed views.

"Our final disengagement would be conditioned upon the release of all U.S. prisoners of war held in North Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam, and upon an accounting for forces listed as missing in action in those countries," he said.

McGovern went on to declare that it was his "firm conviction" the communists would release the prisoners because it would be in their own interests.

"When we are no longer engaged in hostilities against them," he added, "we would be entirely within our rights not only to seek intenational legal sanctions but, in the extreme case, to threaten direct military action against any party which still refused to release our prisoners."

VOLUNTEERS AID IN FIRE FIGHTING

Youthful volunteers man the hoses of the fire departments yesterday while smoke drifts up from the grass behind them and the fire burns through the trees behind the Greenbrae School. The fire, thought to have been started about 4 p.m. by children playing with a smoke bomb, burned an acre and a half of grass and brush before being contained by the Kentfield and Larkspur Fire departments. Martin, Berry In Narrow Sausalito Win—Recount

In the closest election in Sausalito School District history, voters yesterday chose a Sausalito attorney and a retired Marin City electrician to fill two vacancies on their school board.

Attorney Douglas B. Martin Jr. won handily, with 760 votes to 672 for housewife Arlene Knudsen. But Jesse E. Berry of Marin City defeated housewife Judith Silver by only two votes.

Berry received 698 ballots to Mrs. Silver's 696. Mrs. Silver said today she will seek a recount.

Mrs. Knudsen was defeated in her second bid for a board seat, having run unsuccessfully for the board in February in an election which brought trustees Barbara Harris and Betty Times to the board.

Martin, a 37-year old attorney and partner in the San Francisco law firm of Cotton, Seligman and Ray, will fill the board seat vacated by the resignation of trustee Delta Christ, whose term expires in June, 1975.

Martin lives at 77 Tomales Street with his wife and three children.

Berry won the seat formerly held by Jerry L. Whitcomb and a term which will expire in June 1973.

Berry, 67, is a former member of the Marin City Community Services District and Marin County Redevelopment Agency boards and a leader in the Marin City Boys' Club. He and his wife, Flossie, reside at 29 Burgess Court and have lived in Marin City 31 years. They have three grown children.

The breakdown of votes cast in the two communities was: Marin City, 455 ballots cast, Berry, 171; Knudsen, 125; Martin, 100 and Silver, 59; Sausalito, 2,371 ballots cast, Berry, 527; Knudsen, 547; Martin, 660 and Silver, 637.

Approximately 60 per cent of the district's 4,711 registered voters cast their ballots in the election.

Drug Charge Dismissed After 3-Year Delay

Three-year-old drug charges against a Forest Knolls man have been dismissed because he was not given a speedy trial in 1970.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court dropped the charges against Robert Franklin Black, 29, who had been in a Greek jail for two years on a drug trafficking conviction before he was returned to Marin in May.

Black was one of eight persons arrested in a raid in January 1969 that produced a $350,000 cache of LSD, hashish and marijuana in a Tamalpais Valley shop.

However, one was never charged and the counts against the others were dismissed for various reasons, including delay in prosecuting.

The delay in Black's case was between March 1970, when the state Court of Appeal ruled the evidence against him was properly seized, and October 1970 when proceedings were restarted in Marin.

Black and the others were arrested at the shop, said to be a front for9narcotics activities, after agents arranged to buy $75,000 worth of drugs.

Black was jailed in Greece the following year for smuggling hashish after the plane he was in with four other Americans developed engine trouble and landed in Heraklion, Greece. More than 1,400 pounds of hashish were found in the plane.

After serving only two years of a ten-year sentence, he was released after a mob of angry Greek prisoners knifed him while he tried to protect another American from them.

Youth To Face Assault Charge

Novato police have arrested a 15-year-old boy on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon on Drake Whitney Delzell, 16, of 4 Fabian Court, who suffered a fractured cheekbone and fractured left ankle.

Delzell suffered the injuries during an incident outside 2040 Shady Lane at 9:45 p.m. Saturday, police reported. He told officers the boy punched him while holding a lead bar in his hand and kicked a car door shut on his leg.

Officers cited the 15-year-old boy Monday and released him to his father. Delzell was treated at Novato General Hospital.

House Panel Backs Modified Busing Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A House Education subcommittee modified and then approved today an administration bill that would ban any new busing of grade school children and sharply limit other types of court-ordered busing.

The bill would create a list of alternative methods of desegregating before a court could order busing. It also banned any new busing for children in the first six grades.

The measure also would allow any desegregation orders issued by federal courts in the past to be re-opened to determine if they comply with provisions of the new bill.

The subcommittee approved the bill on a voice vote with Reps. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., and Shirley A. Chisholm, D-N.Y., both black, protesting the it would "deny constitutional rights to minority children."

The original bill proposed by the White House was modified by adopting amendments offered by Rep. Albert Quie, R-Minn. One deleted President Nixon's proposal to channel already authoized school aid funds to disadvantaged students in an effort to equalize educational opportunities in existing schools and thus eliminate the need for busing.

The Quie amendment also deleted Nixon's proposal to end all present court-ordered busing five years from enactment of the bill and to eliminate all desegregation court orders 10 years from enactment.

The full House Education and Labor Committee is expected to take up the measure Tuesday.

The subcommittee acted in response to White House prodding. Because it is an emotional political issue, many observers thought Nixon's proposals stood little chance of passage before Congress adjourns.

man C. Pucinski, D-Ill., said the bill was called up "at the request of the White House."

The President's legislation was only one of several antibusing measures that have been resurrected since Congress convened after the recess for the Democratic convention.

Pastor Will Stand Trial For Forgery

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — Rev. Joseph Leon Hughes, former pastor of the Church of All Faiths in Corte Madera, has been ordered to stand trial in Alameda Superior Court on felony forgery and grand theft charges.

He is to appear for arraignment Aug. 7.

He was bound over to superior court Monday after a preliminary hearing in municipal court Monday.

The charges stem from a loan of $2,694 which Hughes allegedly obtained from the American Baptist Norcal Credit Union in January by forging a document.

He is accused of signing his wife's name in order to use her inheritance as collateral for the loan.

Similar charges in Marin were not pressed after the Alameda County charges were filed.

Hughes took over the almost defunct First Baptist Church of Corte Madera in June 1968 and was credited with breathing new life into the parish which became affiliated with the progressive American Baptist Convention.

However, the success story ended Jan. 28 when the minister was arrested in connection with the bank loan. He resigned in March.

nel left Egypt, a Beirut newspaper said France will supply Egypt with weapons now that Sadat has turned away from the Russians.

The Beirut newspaper Al Moharrer quoted reports from Cairo said contacts with France to provide Egypt with weapons have been going on for a year.

Egypt's government-controlled press today emphasized that the expulsion of the advisers will not affect a 15-year treaty between the two countries. The newspapers added that "a number of Russian trainers" will remain with the Egyptian armed forces, but did not clarify exactly how many Soviets were involved or what their job was.

Sadat Tuesday announced the decision, saying the start of the evacuation had begun Monday and "our sons in the armed forces will replace them (the Soviet advisers) in everything they did."

There are about 20,000 Soviets in Egypt, including technicians, missile experts, servicing personnel and pilots and troops manning missile sites. It was not known how many were being asked to leave the country.

In Israel the government carefully avoided any official comment. However, unofficial reports and the nation's press generally reacted positively. The Jerusalem Post said "to the degree that the Soviets, looking over their shoulders at the United States have restrained Egypt's war hawks, Soviet withdrawal could free the way for some Cairo military ventures...

"Both in larger political and military terms, Soviet military withdrawal from Egypt must be considered a welcome development. For without active Soviet assistance, Cairo cannot easiy think in terms of major war."

At the United Nations in New York, the Security Council Tuesday had one of its bitterest procedural wrangles in years on the Middle East. The question centered on what to do about Arab and Israeli prisoners of war.

Israeli ambassador Yosef Tekoah told a news conference that Israeli offers to exchange 61 Egyptian captives, 45 Syrians and five Lebanese for three Israelis held in Syria and 10 in Egypt has "met only with unyielding refusal."

Council members were meeting privately today to discuss the subject and will hold an official meeting Thursday.

School Board Advances Budget

The Cotati School District board last night approved a publication budget of $1,303,507 for 1972-73.

The budget is up $56,670 over the preliminary spending program of $1,246,837 approved June 27, and included a projected increase in state funds.

Board secretary Miriam Horne said the board set a public hearing on the budget for Aug. 3 at 8 p.m. She said information on tax rate changes will be given then.

Back Hoe Damaged At Novato Site

Soiland Co. of Bel Marin Keys reported to Novato police yesterday that a back hoe was damaged at Jackson Drive and Jacson Court between 5 p.m. Monday and 8 a.m. yesterday.

Operator Mark R. Anderson of Petaluma, said someone cut the fuel line and battery cables, removed bolts and poured some substance into the oil. Damage was estimated at $500.

30 Protest Building Of Tank

A group of up to 30 persons protested last night plans by the Richardson Bay Sanitary District board to construct a sewage holding tank at the Ricardo Road pumping station.

Board Secretary Eber D. Russell said speakers, most of them from the Strawberry area, objected both to community development the project would bring and that cost of the $130,000 project should be borne directly by the developers it would benefit.

The tank would hold effluent for treatment at off-peak hours, Russell said.

He said the project is due for consideration Tuesday by the Regional Water Quality Control Board, which has established stringent sewage treatment standards.

Russell said the board is to meet again on the matter July 27 at the Strawberry Recreation Center, two days after the water quality group discusses it.

Until that time, he said, the board can't adopt a preliminary budget of $515,860 for 1972-73, up from $445,182 spent last fiscal year. The operating portion of the spending program is expected to require about a 20-cent increase per $100 of assessed valuation in the district tax rate, Russell said.

The capital improvements portion of the budget, including the planned holding tank, is to be financed by hookup fees, boosted by 50 per cent by the board earlier this month.

Plan Given For Sartori Ranch Area

Developer John Kenney has submitted plans to the Novato Planning Department for 2,300 housing units in a water oriented community on 700 acres south of Highway 37 and east of Black Point.

The plan shows 1,150 condominiums, 1,050 townhouses and 100 semi-detached single family homes.

It also shows 230 acres of open water, 100 acres for parks, open spaces and levees, 65 acres for streets and sewage facilities, 40 acres for commercial development, 20 acres for schools and 15 acres for marinas.

Planning technician James Miller said he expected that a public hearing would be held next month on Kenney's proposal.

Kenney had submitted plans for a community of 7,500 on the property, the Sartori Ranch, in 1965, plans for a mobile home park of 1,800 units in 1968 and last year had plans for 2,313 townhouses, 1,550 apartments and 340 conventional homes.

The major portion of the property, the Sartori Ranch, lies in the area where the Novato flood control zone had limited development to 25 per cent of the flood plain of each parcel.

Felony Charges Dismissed After Court Hearing

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday dismissed a felony hit-and-run driving charge against a 25-year-old Sausalitg woman after hearing contradictory testimony at a preliminary hearing.

Judge Robert A. Smallman said the passenger in a car driven by Linda Carole Almen testified they did not know the car had hit a construction worker on Bridgeway in Sausalito June 1, although others testified she should have known since it was still light out and the car's wheel had dropped into the manhole.

The woman had been charged with hitting Gary R. Zadnick, 23, of Vacaville as he bent over a manhole in the 800 block of Bridgeway. She was arrested at her home after the incident.

Felony Charge Is Reduced

A felony charge of assault with a deadly weapon against Douglas Goff, 26, of Marin City was reduced in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a misdemeanor.

The charge was reduced at the request of the district attorney and a pretrial conference was set for Aug. 2.

Goff, who is also charged with assault and battery, was arrested June 13 after a quarrel with a Marin City woman erupted into gunshots. After posting bail on the weapon charge, he allegedly returned to Marin City and beat the woman.

streets, parks and open space improvements and maintenance in such areas as street sweeping, lighting and parks.

As for police protection, currently provided by the county sheriff's department, the city council has budgeted an additional policeman in 1972-73 and city officials have said several patrol cars would be assigned to the area.

City officials were told the services district's present fire station is inadequate for the region's needs, but they had been planning to build a new station in the Terra Linda area in any case.

City Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci, saying the facility was too small and ill-suited for expansion, proposed a site at Las Pavadas Avenue and Manuel T. Freitas Parkway for a new station, although several other locations were mentioned last night.

Marcucci said the approximate cost of upgrading fire service in the area would be $345,420, including a new station, a new pumper and a 10-man complement.

(Marcucci told the Independent-Journal the improved service would drop the community's fire rating from 6 to 4, but also said residential insurance savings would be slight.)

Tying up loose ends left over from last week's annexation session, city councilmen present — (Harry A. Barbier was absent) — told Terra Linda board members (with Vernon H. Nicholson and Harold J. Reese not present) that Terra Linda employees could be absorbed in the city's retirement system without loss of accrued benefits. They would also agree to enlargement of the city parks and recreation committion from five to seven members to include Terra Lindans.

(Meanwhile, City Atty. Fred C. Robbins told the I-J that Terra Lindans would be eligible to run for the city council in the April elections if annexation were approved. He said the city charter was amended in 1969 passing onto residents of annexed areas identical candidate eligibility requirements for city residents.

(Robert N. Bennett, chairman of the Terra Linda board, has indicated serious interest in running for a council seat.)

While the council said Terra Linda residents would not bear responsibility for the cost of present sewer improvement work in San Rafael, there was mild controversy over allocation of sewer maintenance costs. A special Terra Linda tax zone was suggested.

Amid concerns by Terra Linda residents over preservation of community open space, San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini told the I-J the city would agree to use of the district's $70,000 reserve fund for this purpose.

Cycle Theft Is Basis Of Charge

Gregory Grant Orr, 22, of San Rafael has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of embezzling and stealing a motorcycle.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court ordered him to appear Aug. 7 on the charges.

The district attorney's office alleged that Orr, who was arrested on a warrant last month, took a motorcycle belonging to Jack R. Wheeler for a test prior to buying it last October, but never returned it or paid for it.

Robbery, Assault To Superior Court

Roger Elliott Lindman, 29, of no known address was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on charges of robbery and assault with a deadly weapon. He is to appear Monday.

Lindman was arrested by Fairfax police June 21, the day after Bruce F. Grams of Fairfax told police two men burst into his home, beat him and took $300. He reported the license number of the car as his assailants drove away and the vehicle was traced to Lindman in San Anselmo.

BELVEDERE HOUSE DESTROYED

Firemen poke through the ruins of the home of Dr. Thomas Kenefick at 103 Acacia Avenue, Belvedere, which was demolished by a smoky fire yesterday. Firemen said the two-story residence was totally in flames when they arrived about 3:45 p.m. The blaze apparently began in the kitchen and quickly spread throughout the house. Only a cat, which escaped, was in the home when the fire started. The cause was still under investigation today, and firemen had no estimate of the damage.

Amtrak Faces Booze Challenge

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—In a swaying bar car of Amtrak's "Big Chief" train that clickety-clacked through the prairie darkness, George H. Bell shook the last drops of scotch from a two-ounce bottle and served a cocktail that caused an instant legal hangover.

And in Kansas, where Carrie Nation made saloon history with her hatchet 100 years ago, law officers armed with blue laws challenged Amtrak, the federal railroad system, and the United States Congress, which created it.

The question Wednesday was which was stronger—federal or state law?

Kansas law permits the sale of liquor by the drink only in private clubs. State Attorney General Vern Miller said a train does not qualify for a liquor license because it has no permanent address.

Oklahoma law permits the sale of liquor by the bottle in licensed stores but prohibits sale of mixed drinks.

Amtrak officials claim its trains operate under federal law and, therefore, cannot be regulated by the antiliquor state laws.

The battle over booze will be decided in court. Amtrak backed down Wednesday by suspending the sale of cocktails temporarily in Kansas and Oklahoma.

State officials stopped Amtrak trains in Oklahoma City and Newton, Kan., and arrested conductors, bartenders and stewards for running "open saloons."

"I'm just mad that it happened to me," said Bell, 49, of Chicago, a 20-year veteran bartender with Santa Fe Railroad. "A train came through here this morning going south. They sold whisky. Nobody bothered him."

Agents of the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board got on an Amtrak train at Ardmore, Okla., Tuesday night. They bought highballs as the train sped north, and then, as it rolled into Oklahoma City, a heavyset man told Bell:

"You are under arrest for running an open saloon. The bar is closed."

Estrada To Face Marijuana Count

Mark Edward Estrada, 21, of no known address, was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on a charge of possessing marijuana.

He is to appear July 31.

Estrada was arrested June 16 by a sheriff's deputy who reported seeing a pouch of possible marijuana on the dashboard when he stopped Estrada's car for a defective taillight on North San Pedro Road.

Schools To Get Safety Money

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill providing local school districts with an additional $30 million to bring their buildings up to earthquake safety standards has received final legislative approval in the Assembly.

The measure by Assemblyman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, was sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan Tuesday after the Assembly concurred 60-0 in Senate amendments.

Public schools face a 1975 deadline to bring their buildings up to standard or close the unsafe buildings. Under the bill, the money would come from a onetime windfall in state revenue created by the imposition of payroll withholding of state income taxes this year.

Conservationists Back Saving Of Marshland

The Marin Conservation League will support efforts to save marshlands in Corte Madera and oppose joint military-civilian use of Hamilton Air Force Base, according to league president Frank Moncrief.

Moncrief said that at a meeting Monday night, board members agreed the Heerdt marsh in East Corte Madera, which is undeveloped land south of Corte Madera Creek, should receive a high priority for open space purchase.

He said that the league members believe the marsh, one of the few live marshes left in the area, should be preserved especially for its educational advantages as well as for recreation and bird life.

The league, however, is also very interested in acquiring Northridge for open space and did not set an order of priority for the marsh, Moncrief said.

After hearing proponents and opponents of civilian use of Hamilton, Moncrief said league members decided that advantages to some air commuters would be outweighed by increased noise and air pollution if the airport is used as a civilian feeder base.

There are only two traffic lights on the British Colony of Bermuda —one for cars and one for boats.

Regional Park District In Marin Wins Support

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill creating a regional park district in Marin County yesterday was endorsed by the Senate Local Government Committee with a key amendment.

The bill, AB 2353 by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, went to the upper house floor for passage. Because of the amendment, it will have to go back to the Assembly for concurrence.

The bill will become law upon its signature by the governor, clearing the way for a vote in the November election on creation of the district.

The amendment, asked by the state Parks and Recreation Department, requires that any tax revenue expended by the district be spent only to buy new land and develop newly acquired property. Bagley, who introduced the amendment, said it would prevent spending the new revenue on current operations.

The district would have a 10-cent property tax limit.

Driver Slightly Hurt In Crash

A San Rafael man was injured today when he plowed his car into the front yard of the Louis L. Zanze residence at 1726 Grand Avenue, destroying 30 feet of wooden fence and a plum tree.

William S. Doty, 23, of 1309 Lincoln Avenue told officers he was southbound on Grand Avenue when he saw another car traveling toward him and swerved across the roadway into the Zanze's yard.

He was treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts and bruises and a possibly broken rib.

ALL PLAY AND NO WORK

Playfully grasping the hand of Janice Philbrick of San Anselmo, Bonnie the raccoon shows that domestic life can't be all that bad for a restless creature of the wild. Bonnie, abandoned almost a year ago when 3 weeks old, was brought to Mrs. Philbrick's husband, Albert, a veterinarian. The Philbricks fixed Bonnie a large, glass-enclosed area complete with swimming pool and trees in the lobby of their veterinarian office-home. The veterinarian, however, doesn't recommend raccoons for house pets. "They have the unlimited ability to open anything," he says.

College Building To Start In Spring

Site improvements on the Indian Valley Colleges campus in Novato will begin in October or November, with construction of the first buildings starting late next Spring.

Marin Community College board members, meeting at the Kentfield campus last night, were given the district's updated schedule.

According to Dale A. Fleming, director of planning, a start will be made on four buildings — two inner colleges, an interim library (which will later become a book store) and a student services and administration building.

Also scheduled for summer construction are two power plants, a corporation yard and some hard-surface courts.

Fleming said the district still hopes the first students will move into the Indian Valley Colleges campus at the beginning of the 1974-75 school year.

Board members discussed serving the county's growth needs, said Dr. John A. Grasham, superintendent-president. He said enrollment projections are turning out to be underestimated.

The Kentfield campus is master-planned on an optimum enrollment of 5,000 "day graded" students. (This means those attending from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.) The enrollment this year was 5,300. Predictions for the coming year were 5,500, but it now looks as if it will be at least 5,600.

Dr. Grasham said members were told the Kentfield campus enrollment projections for the next six or seven years appear likely to have been underestimated anywhere from 49 to 240 students for each year.

Reason for the miscalculation appears to be unforeseen nationwide trend towards junior college attendance while four-year college enrollment is levelling off, he said.

Board members discussed this growth level in terms of Indian Valley Colleges, he said. Optimum enrollment at the Novato campus is also set at 5,000.

Board members will meet again July 31, and at an adjourned meeting August 7 will consider for approval the campus' preliminary plans.

Subdivision Plans Win Panel's Nod

Plans for a 19-unit subdivision were approved last night by the Petaluma Planning Commission.

The commission approved the final map for Mountain View Estates as planned by Camille Enterprises. The firm will build 19 homes on Mountain View Avenue.

The commission recommended that a small section of the street not owned by the developer also be widened and improved to prevent possible hazards for motorists. The representative of Camille Enterprises said he would attempt to make arrangements for the improvements and discuss it when the plan is presented to the city council.

The Petaluma Planning Commission also:

AUTO REPAIR — Approved plans by S and M Petaluma Auto Service for a repair garage and body shop on Petaluma Boulevard North at Corona Road.

STATION — Approved plans by Shell Oil Co. for a new service station on Lakeville Street.

STORAGE — Granted a use permit to Robert E. Miller to allow gasoline sales in connection with a boat and travel trailer storage yard at 960 Lakeville Street.

CREAMERY — Approved plans for an addition to the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery on Western Avenue.

Performance Set

Musicians Judee Sill and Stephen Fiske will perform at 9:30 p.m. July 28 and 29 at the Resh House at Tam Junction in Mill Valley.

Two BCDC Proposals To The Floor

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Two bills sought by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission yesterday cleared their last committee and went to the Assembly floor for final passage.

One, SB 181, would permit county supervisors on the commission to appoint any county official as an alternate. The current requirement that both the county's representative and his alternate be supervisors has caused problems getting a quorum, sometimes delaying commission actions.

The other bill, SB 793, extends the commission's jurisdiction up Corte Madera Creek to the Ross-Kentfield boundary. It previously was opposed by the Marin Property Owners Association, but no opposition was heard yesterday when both bills were before the Assembly Planning and Land Use Committee.

Both bills, authored by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, were endorsed unanimously by the committee.

Convict Benefit Bill Is Defeated

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill providing ex-convicts with a payment of $350 when they are released from prison was narrowly rejected Tuesday by the Assembly.

Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco kept his measure alive by asking to have the vote reconsidered after it was defeated on a 40-25 vote, one short of approval.

Brown said that currently ex-convicts receive $68 when they are discharged and contended the higher amount would help prevent them from returning to crime "just to survive."

101 Projects To Alter Flow Of Traffic Tomorrow

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow were announced by the state Division of Highways.

Sections of the freeway involved are:

1. One northbound lane in the vicinity of San Marin Drive and Atherton Avenue, Novato, will be closed from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. to permit construction of a permanent detour which should be completed by midafternoon.

2. The southbound shoulder lane over California Park Hill in Greenbrae will be closed from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. because of a slide removal and prevention project.

3. There will be occasional short delays on the southbound off-ramp at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Greenbrae because of trucks hauling dirt.

4. The northbound shoulder lane on Waldo Grade will be closed from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. and the southbound shoulder lane from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. to allow construction of a guard rail and drainage dikes.

Flood Board Asks Low Bid Approval

The San Rafael Meadows Flood Control Advisory Board last night recommended that the board of supervisors accept the Filipovich Construction Co.'s low bid of $7,000 for culvert replacement in the El Prado pipe project in San Rafael Meadows.

High bid for the work — which was budgeted for $5,000 — was $9,620 by Ghilotti Brothers, Inc., according to James R. Blum, board chairman.

Felony Charge Is Dismissed

A Marin Superior Court judge has dismissed a felony charge of possessing benzedrine against Gregory Gerald Nelson, 25, of no known address, after ruling the man had been searched illegally.

Judge E. Warren McGuire, following a recent State Supreme Court decision, ruled that Nelson, when stopped March 30 on a $15 traffic warrant, should have been given full opportunity to come up with the $15 he owed before being searched and arrested.

Mill Valley police found the drug after arresting Nelson whne he said he did not have the $15 on his person.

Airlines Move To Stop Hijackers

CHICAGO (UPI)—Two major airlines say they have taken steps to stop the hijackings of Boeing 727 jet aircraft by sealing off rear exit doors used by parachuting hijackers.

A Trans World Airlines spokesman said Tuesday the rear exits on 72 of its 727s have been "permanently" sealed from the outside. An American Airlines spokesman said a modification has been made to the rear doors of 100 of its 727s.

The 727 aircraft has been a popular target of hijackers who have used the rear doorways to parachute from the planes.

Greenbrae Woman Tells Of Antique Robbery

Theft of antiques and objets d'art from her apartment at the Tamalpais Retirement Residence, 501 Via Casitas, Greenbrae, were reported by Pauline Sigfried Cramel yesterday.

Larkspur police said Mrs. Cramel and her husband began moving boxes of personal possessions from their Ross residence on July 9. Seven porcelain flowers —all purchased from Tiffany's in San Francisco —were left packed in a box on the apartment's rear deck.

Two antique hand carved Japanese wooden figurines of a fisherman and woman, termed "priceless antiques" by Mrs. Cramel, were left in a box in the hall closet.

According to police, Mrs. Cramel missed both boxes last Friday, but delayed reporting the theft, thinking they had been misplaced. She valued the porcelain objets d'art at $168, and the figurines at $125 each.

Investigation into the theft is continuing, said police.

Dougan Backers Support Peevey

Michael R. Peevey, candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Fourth District, today announced that he has been endorsed by the cochairmen of a candidate eliminated in the June primary election.

Harold Hyde of Corte Madera and Robert D. Dolman of Larkspur, cochairmen for James Dougan of San Rafael, issued a joint statement supporting Peevey. They challenged the ability of Peevey's opponent, Gary T. Giacomini of Woodacre, to "be objective about departmental budgets when his father is a department head."

Giacomini's father, Noel, is county recorder.

Fine Given For Credit Card Theft

A 24-year-old Santa Rosa Woman, who found another person's credit cards one day and tried to use them the next, was fined $400 and ordered to make restitution Monday.

Following the terms of a plea bargain, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court also placed Pamela Louise Bell on probation for three years.

Mrs. Bell admitted finding the purse of Awilda A. Dominguez of San Francisco in the restroom of a drive-in movie on March 18 and using the credit cards it contained at Town and Country Village in Strawberry.

A probation officer said she obtained $126 in merchandise before being stopped at the Little Daisy Dress Shop.

Mrs. Bell, a secretary at the California Rural Legal Assistance office in Healdsburg, reportedly said she committed the crime because she was "financially strapped."

She and her husband are $2,000 in debt, according to her probation officer, but she chose the fine in lieu of 30 days in jail. The district attorney recommended 60 days in jail.

Mrs. Bell had no prior record.

Cycle O'Rama At Center Endorsed

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday endorsed an all-day Cycle O'Rama on Civic Center grounds later this summer.

The event, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of North San Rafael, will feature a series of bicycle races around the complex, bicycle displays and refreshment booths.

The board's approval is subject however to clearance from the sheriff's office and the San Rafael Police Department which is responsible for patroling Civic Center grounds.

The sheriff's office early objected to the proposal since the route of the bicycle races would interfere with access to the county jail.

The race route was later revised to provide access to the sheriff's office and county jail.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

WATER — Authorized the county counsel's office to seek a temporary restraining order to halt Norman L. Orr of Forest Knolls from constructing a holding pond near a spring supplying drinking water to the Mount Barnabe fire lookout station. The spring, located on Orr's property, has been used as a source of water since 1940 and the county will seek to clarify its rights in court.

REDWOOD — Ordered removal of a large redwood tree posing a traffic hazard at 1901 Nicasio Valley Road, Nicasio. Roy R. Bunt, who lives at that address, urged its removal.

FIRE TAX — Tabled a proposal from the Muir Beach Community Services District that its residents be excluded from the county's structural fire tax since the community now has its own fire truck. The board tabled the matter after Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli said his calls to the new fire department went unanswered indicating less than full-time fire protection.

BULKHEAD — Approved plans and specifications to repair the bulkhead wall below Terrace Avenue in Bolinas. The existing wall has eroded away and could collapse. The project will go to bid with construction due later this summer.

HORSES — Continued for two weeks a proposal from the Lucas Valley Homeowners Association that it run the horse stable on the Thomas A. Nunes ranch and turn over profits to the Lucas Valley County Service Area which is purchasing the land. The board continued the matter at the request of supervisor John F. McInnis who said he wanted more community reaction to the idea. McInnis, still recovering from surgery, attended the board meeting for about three hours.

PARK DISTRICT — Set Aug. 1 for a public hearing on the formation of a countywide park and open space district prior to placing it on the November ballot for voter consideration.

FAMILY MIX — Referred to the county schools office a request for $1,150 from the Family Mix experimental education cooperative.

SUNNY HILLS — Deferred action on a proposal to reduce child care payments to Sunny Hills treatment center pending further negotiations between county staff and operators of Sunny Hills. The probation department had proposed a $76 reduction from the present $1,074 per child per month.

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Administrative Analyst Michael Chrystal to replace Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella on tha Marin County Comprehensive Health Planning Council but deferred action on appointing Sausalito Mayor Robin Sweeny to replace former San Anselmo Councilman James F. Reed on the health council.

TIDELANDS — Continued to Dec. 19 a tidelands fill permit requested by West Marin rancher Waldo Giacomini for his Tomales Bay property. The state is currently negotiating to purchase the land.

BYPASS — Continued to next Tuesday an appeal of planning commission approval of a variance for Freeman-Sondgroth Construction Co. to build a private "haul road" along Highway 101 as part of the Novato Bypass Project. The appeal was lodged by owners of the Pashburg-Tanforan properties who agreed with the continuance. They maintain the road would devalue their property.

Computer May Play Important Factor In Life

ATLANTA (UPI)—New birth record forms fed into a computer may provide medical information which could improve the quality of life for thousands of babies yet to be born, a state official sati yesterday.

Glenn Fox, director of the state vital records unit of the Department of Human Resosrces, said the computer would be able to provide instant statistical data.

Fox said the new form contains a confidential section of vital information about the pregnancy and about the baby's parents. Prevention of congenital defects and injuries occurring during the birth process are among the major goals of the system.

Ross Valley Board Will View Budget

The Ross Valley Sanitary District board will consider adopting a $1,250,000 budget for 1972-73 at a meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. Aug. 7.

The board reviewed the proposed spending program — up from last year's $1,200,000 budget — on Monday night, but made no cut or addition, according to Ned J. Ongaro, district manager.

The budget is not expected to change the district tax rate of $1 per $100 of assessed valuation, he said.

"Most of the budget will be used for operating expenses, sewer line replacement and trunk line construction," he said.

The board also reviewed the Shaw Construction Co.'s low bid of $13,152 for the Porteous Avenue sewer replacement project in Fairfax and decided to award the contract at its Aug. 7 meeting.

WORD-A-DAY

Disaster Plan Has Endorsement

Frank Rothganger of Sacramento, chief of utility services in the state Office of Emergency Services, has generally endorsed Marin's plan for coordinating utility manpower in a disaster.

Rothganger met with officials of 17 Marin water and sewer districts and private utility firms Monday in San Rafael. He said the county's plan also should consider the likelihood that Marin might lose outside electrical and natural gas and perhaps water sources in a major earthquake or war.

County aides will be asked to begin an inventory of alternate sources, Frank E. Kirby, county coordinator of emergency services, reported yesterday.

Utility service officials from Pacific Gas and Electric Co., telephone firms serving Marin, all water districts and most of the sewer and sanitation districts in Eastern Marin supported plans drafted by Kirby's office. Many stressed need for closer tie-in of communications, Kirby said.

When the state approves the Marin emergencyplan, most of the participating public districts will be eligible to acquire at low cost surplus equipment for use in most types of emergency, Kirby added.

Marin Tax Pinch Is Forecast Unless State Proposal Amended

Marin County may find itself in a severe financial pinch if proposed property tax relief legislation is not amended by the state Legislature, county Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell predicted yesterday.

Mitchell voiced his warning before county supervisors who last week endorsed the tax relief measure, coauthored by William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The measure, AB-1000, would place a ceiling on county tax rates using this year's rates as a maximum. It would take local elections to raise the tax rates, and any new state-mandated programs would be paid for by the state.

By limiting tax rates to their present levels, property taxes would only increase if assessed valuation increased.

That, according to Mitchell, is where the county may find itself in trouble since several cities have formed redevelopment agencies which can "freeze" assessed valuation levels.

Thus, he told the Independent-Journal, county government could be caught between spiralling inflation on one hand and frozen revenues on the other.

Four cities — Larkspur, Corte Madera, San Rafael and Novato — have formed redevelopment agencies though none has established redevelopment boundaries with frozen assessed valuation.

Under law, the city redevelopment agencies can freeze assessed valuation levels and use revenues from future increases to finance construction bonds.

Mitchell said he had not worked out estimates on the possible loss of revenues to the county but said the figure could be more than $500,000 annually.

He said he planned to work out estimates this week using as a hypothesis that each of four city redevelopment agencies has frozen 50 per cent of the cities' assessed valuation.

The auditor said he also will develop figures for Marin's other seven communities even though they haven't formed redevelopment agencies.

During yesterday's discussion on Bagley's tax relief measure, Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste said he had already related the problem to Bagley and had been assured by the assemblyman it would be reviewed.

Besides placing a ceiling on county tax rates, the tax relief measure would increase homeowners' exemptions from the present $750 to $1,750 the first year and $1,850 the second.

Increased state costs for state-mandated programs and increased school financing would be paid for by increased sales, corporate and income taxes.

Two Dead In Gun Tragedy

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—"My God, I shot him!" said Tim Newman, 42, when his new .45 caliber pistol accidentally discharged, hitting his brother, Quinn, in the chest and killing him.

Tim walked outside, put the gun to his head and fired, killing himself.

"They were very close," said an investigator of the tragedy.

Tim Newman, his wife and family, of Milton, Wis., arrived for a vacation visit with his brother only hours before the shootings.

Pleas Entered In Drug Case

Two Mill Valley residents arrested Friday during a drug sale have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to felony narcotics and marijuana counts.

A preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 25 for Robert Trotter, 28, and Sandra Siene Olsen, 22.

Narcotics agents said Miss Olsen told an informant she knew where he could buy some cocaine and led agents to Trotter's home at 699 Edgewood Avenue.

Agents said Trotter produced a small sample of what he said was cocaine and was arrested at about 10:30 p.m. Pot was found in the house and in Miss Olsen's purse, agents said.

Trotter is charged with offering to sell cocaine and possessing marijuana and cocaine. The woman is charged with pot possession.

Executive Panel Of One Union Backs McGovern

DENVER (UPI)—The executive board of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (OCAW) voted Tuesday to endorse Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern.

A.F. Grospiron, president of the 182,000-member union, announced the endorsement of the South Dakota senator following a telephone poll of board members.

Grospiron attended the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach earlier this month as a McGovern delegate.

Grospiron said the union traditionally waits until after both political parties have held their conventions, but recommended immediate action because it was evident President Nixon will be the Republican nominee.

Phone Lines Cut To McGovern Quarters

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A vandal cut all 30 telephone lines to the McGovern campaign headquarters here Tuesday.

The lines to the switchboard were "neatly cut" but there were no signs of forced entry, campaign workers said.

Pollution Suit Is Filed By Group

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Environmental Defense Fund, a conservationist group, filed a Superior Court action Tuesday against the East Bay Municipal Utility District (EBMUD) accusing it of pollutig San Francisco Bay.

The suit called the EBMUD the "largest single polluter" of the bay and seeks to force it to re-cycle waste water for industrial uses.

The suit also seeks to enjoin EBMUD from contracting for water from the proposed Auburn Dam on the American River. The suit says this water would not be needed if EBMUD recycled existing water supplies.

Those joining in the court action included the Save the American River Association and the Oceanic Society as well as individual conservationists.

"Technology is now available to make sure effluent is clean before entering our rivers, bays and ocean coastline," said Thomas J. Graff, regional counsel for the fund.

"Re-cycling would render the planned Auburn Dam on the American River and much of the California Water Plan obsolete," Graff said. He argued that recycling plants cost less to build than a dam providing the same volume of water.

The court action, if successful, would set a precedent requiring waste water recycling for other water districts in San Francisco, San Jose, Los Angeles and San Diego, the plaintiffs said.

The fund also seeks a change in the price of water. At present industries pay a lower rate for water than do small household users. Charging heavy users more would force them to conserve water, the suit contends.

KTIM Show Will Discuss Merger

The proposed merger of the Terra Linda Community Services District and the City of San Rafael will be discussed tomorrow at 9 a.m. on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board."

Guests of moderator Kitty Oppenheimer will include San Rafael City Councilman Lawrence E. Mulryan; Asst. City Mgr. William J. Bielser; Robert N. Bennett, community services district board chairman, and Cecelia Martz, former chairman of the Terra Linda Park and Recreation District board.

Questions are invited for the broadcast. The program will be rebroadcast Sunday at 9:40 a.m.

Community Dicussion Is Set For Corte Madera

A community discussion has been set for July 27 at 8 p.m. in the San Clemente School multipurpose room to plan September's Corte Madera town meeting.

The session was announced by Mrs. Edward F. Pierce, acting chairman of the steering committee promoting the town meeting.

She said the town meeting's objective "is to encourage the widest possible participation of town residents and public officials in the study and discussion of issues of interest."

Peter Belden, teacher of psychology at Tamalpais High School, has been selected to moderate the July 27 discussion.

Belden, who is also Tam High's work experience coordinator, said, "The only system of change that makes sense for Corte Madera is through thoughtful planning based on the input of the interests and hopes of its residents."

All Corte Madera residents are invited to attend the July 27 meeting, said Mrs. Pierce.

Youths Set Sale In Rohnert Park

GOURMET PICNICS are simpler to prepare than they sound. Filling the picnic hamper with fried cornish game hens, stuffed eggplant and gourmet relishes does not take much more time than peanut butter sandwiches, potato salad or other ordinary picnic fare.

Copy The French For Elegant Picnic Basket

Those who prefer the better things of the table don't have to leave their sophisticated tastes at home when they go on a picnic. There can be more to such outings than peanut butter sandwiches, cold hot dogs, canned meat spreads and hard-boiled eggs.

The French, with whom family picnics are a national pastime, do not desert their love of fine food when they go al fresco. In fact, they vie with each other to see who can produce the most appetizing and satisfyingly fine hamper.

FRIED CORNISH GAME HENS

or 1 small Cornish hen for each serving 1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
Seasoned bread crumbs
Frying fat

Defrost the fowl and remove giblets. Season. Brush with egg beaten with milk. Roll in bread crumbs and fry in hot fat (375 degrees) 25 minutes until golden. Cool and pack in the picnic hamper.

STUFFED EGGPLANT

1 small eggplant
½ onion, chopped
1 clove garlic
Butter
Salt
Pinch oregano
½ cup bread crumbs
2 eggs
Grated Parmesan cheese

Cut a lengthwise slice from the top of eggplant and scoop pulp from the shell. Parboil the shell for five minutes. Chop eggplant pulp, add chopped onion, garlic (crushed) and brown lightly in butter. Season with salt, butter and oregano. Add one-half cup bread crumbs and beaten eggs and spoon back in shell. Sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese. Bake in 350 degreeoven 25 minutes, or until golden. Cool.

GOURMET RELISHES

Pack jars of miniature pickled white corn, tiny pickled peppers and other delicacies that abound on gourmet shelves.

The Yellow Flame Slows Cooking Time

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you've noticed the blue gas flame of your range has been a little yellow lately, then you've probably also noticed that cooking is taking longer than usual.

The thing to do, says the American Gas Association, is to clean the burner. If that doesn't work, call your service man. The flame should burn with an intense blue glow that's all blue.

Stuffed Flank Steak Ideal For A Barbecue

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

Flank steak may be stuffed and rolled up for cooking on the outdoor grill. Or, if you prefer, you can bake the roll in the kitchen oven.

This cut of beef is the true "London Broil." Although other cuts may be called by this name on the meat counters of supermarkets, they are not the real thing.

HEARTHSIDE FLANK STEAK

1 flank steak, about 1½ pounds
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 can (4½ ounces) deviled ham
¼ teaspoon salt
Barbecue Sauce

Cut off excess fat from flank steak and score on one side.

In an eight-inch skillet heat the butter; add the onion and cook gently until softened; mix in crumbs, deviled ham and salt.

Spread deviled ham mixture over scored side of steak; roll up, beginning at short end. Fasten roll with short skewers.

Place steak on grill about five inches above hot coals. Baste with barbecue sauce. Periodically turn and baste steak, cooking to desired doneness. For a rare steak, about 35 to 40 minutes will be needed.

Steak roll may be baked in a preheated 400-degree oven for about 50 minutes.

Main Dish: Chef Salad Valencia

If a chef salad is the only elegant main-dish salad you can think of, then it's time to think Spanish.

Salad Valencia is a Spanish favorite, using many of the same ingredients as our chef salad — meat, hard cooked eggs, tomatoes, green pepper and onion. But, here the similarity ends. The Spanish version is a much heartier meal, more robust and at the same time more subtle.

The secret of Salad Valencia is in how the ingredients are put together — how their flavors are blended under the influence of a dressing-marinade combining the distinctive flavor of Spanish olive oil with the piquancy of wine vinegar, onion, parsley and a hint of garlic. A generous sprinkling of Spanish olives confirms its Iberian ancestry.

For American homemakers, Salad Valencia has a lot more going for it than its glamorous international reputation. With rice as a basic ingredient, it is a lot more substantial than its American cousin — and just as appealing to hungry teen-agers as to their parents.

Moreover, it can be made with just about any leftover meat you have on hand — or with canned chicken, tuna, shrimp or whatever. It's a good emergency meal, too.

With a little advance planning, you can arrange to keep most of the ingredients on the shelf, supplementing them with the fresh items you're most likely to have on hand anyway.

SALAD VALENCIA reveals its Iberian ancestry in a colorful garnish of imported Spanish olives and a subtle dressing-marinade that combines Spanish olive oil, wine vinegar and a hint of garlic.

HEARTY CHEF SALAD VALENCIA

3 cups cooked rice
½ green pepper, diced
1 pimiento, diced
1 cup finely diced, cooked veal, turkey, or any leftover meat
Vinagreta Sauce
1 bottle (10 oz.) Spanish olives, drained
1 medium tomato cut into wedges
3 hard-cooked eggs

VINAGRETA SAUCE

3 slices of onion
1 tablespoon minced parsley
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup Spanish olive oil
1 clove garlic, crushed
⅓ cup wine vinegar

Combine the cooked rice with the green pepper, pimiento and diced meat. Toss with one-third cup of the Vinagreta sauce. Marinate olives and tomatoes in the remainder of the sauce. Arrange rice mixture in a mound on platter, with olives, tomatoes and egg wedges around the base. Serve chilled with remainder of sauce and crisp French bread. Makes four to six servings.

To make the sauce: Combine onion, parsley, salt, oil and garlic; let stand one-half hour. Remove garlic and discard, add vinegar, stir well. Makes one and one-third cups. This sauce may also be used as a marinade for cooked vegetables, served chilled as a salad, which may be prepared a day ahead.

Good Party Platter: Frank Spears

Frankfurters combined with tidbits of fruits, vegetables and crackers, served on a tray with Gouda cheese spread, make a tasty, attractive party platter.

FRANK SPEARS

½ pound frankfurters (cold)
Tidbits of food (examples) cherry tomatoes pickles olives
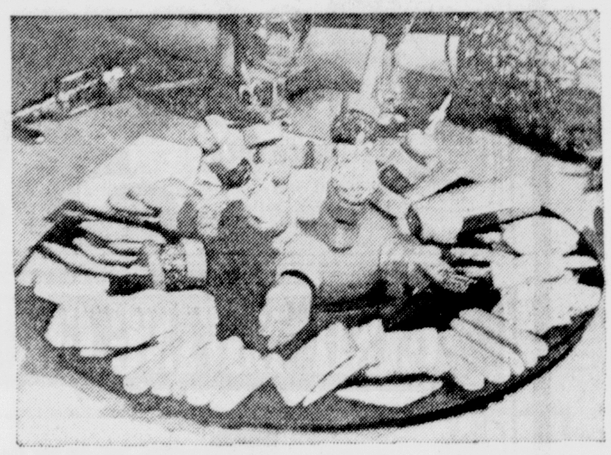
peppers
pineapples
cheese balls
Gouda Cheese Spread:
1 Gouda cheese package
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon milk
2 tablespoons dry vermouth
Party picks, 3 - 4 inches

To make frank spears cut each frankfurter crosswise into six slices. On picks, thread two pieces of frankfurter alternately with different food items such as cherry tomatoes, pickles, olives, peppers, pineapples, cheese balls, etc.

To prepare Gouda cheese spread: Allow cheese to come to room temperature. Using knife, cut wax from top of cheese, careful to leave the shell intact. Scoopout cheese. In bowl, beat together cheese with following ingredients — prepared mustard, Worcestershire sauce, garlic powder, milk and dry vermouth. Beat until well mixed. Refill shell.



ONE OF the most inviting features of this eye-catching party platter is its variety of colors, shapes and flavors. The tray will surely tempt and delight the adventurous taste "sampler." Dip the Frank Spears into the Gouda cheese shell, and eat them right from the pick.

A Quick Dessert For An Outing

Picnics mean relaxation, fun, and probably a few games, too. To make the cook's role easy be sure and plan picnic menus that are portable with a minimum of time and work involved. For desserts bring along this simple cake with broiled frotsting.

Carry to the picnic right in the baking pan! Bake a 13x9-inch cake and while it's in the oven, combine one-third cup butter, softened, three-fourths cup firmly packed brown sugar, three tablespoons cream, one and one-third cups flaked coconut, and one-third chopped nuts. Spread it over the hot cake and broil, about three inches from the heat, for three minutes.

Picnic Idea

Pack the picnic cooler with sandwiches made from skinless frankfurters. Grind together ½ pound franks, ½ a small onion and 1 stalk celery. Blend in ¼ cup sweet pickle juice and a few drops of Tabasco.

Summer Dessert

Add a jigger of creme de menthe to drained canned fruit cocktail; chill until frosty. Spoon over rich vanilla ice cream for a summery dessert.

"Bigger cook-out cuts... American

That's what I like about LAMB."

Lamb chops, barbecue-braised campfire-style, really satisfy he-men appetites. For bigger chops with more lean, tender meat, be sure they're fresh American LAMB.

DELECTABLE LAMB SHOULDER CHOPS (4 servings)
Place 4 chops (¾" to 1" thick) in flat baking dish, cover with French dressing; marinate overnight in refrigerator. Grill over charcoal on grate approximately 6 inches above coals. Brush frequently with French dressing during cooking. Grill to desired degree of doneness (approximately 16 minutes per side for well done). Sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve.

Note: Those who prefer braising chops may brown them in a skillet over coals, adding a favorite barbecue sauce, or a can of mushroom soup, combined with a can of water before covering. Simmer gently until desired doneness is reached.

FRESH AMERICAN Lamb in the circle of good taste

Shrub Is Summer Drink And Doubles As Dessert

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press

A delightful summer drink that can also doublefor dessert is the shurb, a 19th Century concoction that won plaudits from author William Makepeace Thackeray.

This union of sweetened fruit juices and wine or liquors is cooling, not filling and easy to make. It also is an excellent refresher to mix for yourself on the spur of the moment or to prepare in advance for a party. In fact the concoction that earned Thackeray's endorsement as "the best drink that ever was," should draw compliments from 20th Century sippers.

In the early days shurb was aged in glass or wood containers, then strained and served on festive occasions. In this era, before modern refrigeration, one of the advantages of shurb as a punch was that it kept well the year round because of its alcohol content.

An 1831 cookbook published in Virginia promised that its cherry shurb "will keep all summer in a dry, cool place, and is delicious mixed with water."

ALMOST ANY kind of frui can be used to make shurb, and in the early days it was often made with a rum base. An 1836 recipe for shurb declared "The shurb is indifferent unless the rum is good."

In making shurb, one should pre-chill as many of the ingredients as possible. Put the fruit of your choice through a blender or juicer. If a blender is used, strain the juice to remove all solid fibers. As a sweetener you can use a simple syrup, fruit jellies or bottled syrups.

Shurb should be served in a chilled pitcher, carafe or large brandy inhaler. Smother the drink in crushed ice like a mint julep. Clear glass shows off the bright hues of the strawberry, grape, plum, cherry or other fruit juices, used.

To round out the drink, fill each individual glass with carbonated water or champagne, also icy cold. Garnish the creation with mint sprigs, whole berries or fruit slices that go well with the drink.

Here is a shurb recipe that should brighten a drowsy summer afternoon:

RASPBERRY SHURB

3 cups fresh raspberries
1 cup raspberry jelly
8 ounces raspberry liquor
6 ounces cognac
6 ounces benedictine and brandy
Juice of 3 lemons

Remove stems from the fresh raspberries, put through blender with the jelly and strain. Return to blender, add other ingredients and blend well. Pour into large container and refrigerate until ready to serve. After pouring into individual glasses, add champagne at last minute to taste. Garnish with unstemmed raspberries. Serves 10 to 12 persons.

WHETHER DRAWING on the blackboard as Jennifer Nichols is doing (above) or pouring sand into glue on paper in nature study class, the project of Lainie Tompkins (right), participants in the creativity program at San Domenico School are offered an opportunity to express themselves and learn about their environment.

CARPET ROLL ends, huge spools and large, open boxes are scattered throughout the large auditorium at San Domenico School in San Anselmo, where Genie Gabel (right) teaches the dance class of the summer creativity program. To the sound of eerie electronic music the children roll over spools, peer through boxes and (from left) Andrea Tompkins, Allison Cantril and Jessica Baylis, step over carpet roll ends.

A CHILD'S WORLD

Classes Stress Creativity

By JOAN LISETOR

Each child is potentially a creative child, according to Sister M. Pamela, O.P., director of the creativity program being held for the seventh summer at San Domenico School in San Anselmo.

"Opening the child to as many experiences in as many media as possible can't help but encourage him so he won't build up blocks. Adults judge beauty, while a child derives pleasure from experience, and it is important for him to have something to show in which he can take pride," she said.

The program is for boys and girls between the ages of 4½ and 8½. Emphasis is placed on group action and stimulation of the senses in an atmosphere where creativity can be realized.

The program is divided into nature study, music, collage, ceramics, dance and painting classes. The children are given a schedule so they attend two or three classes during each morning session.

THE DANCE class is taught by Genie Gabel of San Rafael in a large auditorium where every sound from the electronic and percussion instruments vibrates throughout the room. On the floor there is sand, carpet roll ends, huge spools and large, open wooden boxes.

The slow music stops, and so do the young dancers. The music speeds up, and there is a frenzy of activity.

"The slow music is so they will feel every muscle, concentrating on the muscles it takes to move," the teacher explained.

"The reason for the electronic music is they are unaccustomed to the sounds and are forced to make new movements."

The children pick up the spools and let them drop, roll on them and look through them. They peer inside the boxes and sit on the spools and roll across the room.

It is all part of helping them to establish a special relationship between themselves and the props, Miss Gabel explained.

As in all of the classes, children are encouraged to express feelings, whether they are making collages from macaroni, pouring sand into glue on a sheet of paper or drawing with chalk on a black board.

Children may attend for the entire five weeks or choose one of the two sessions, a three-week session followed by a two-week session, which began Monday.

Sister Pamela, who was the nature study teacher last year, is completing her first summer as director. She enjoys watching the progress of the children, she said.

"If the child develops a greater awareness of the world around him we will have succeeded," she said.

Correct Care For Electric Blankets

NEW YORK (UPI)—Care, cleaning and operation of heating pads or electric blankets include: keeping heating pad or blanket dry; not bending or folding more than necessary (can break heating elements); place heating pad in a pillow case or keep in cover provided to protect it; never put pins through heating pad or blanket as pins may short circuit the heating coils or break them; never store pad in folded position.

The advice is from Cornell University Extension Bulletin 1051, titled "The Care and Simple Repair of Household Equipment."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

The His'n-Herstory: Reader Has A Beef With Double Standards

DEAR HELEN:

I, too, enjoyed the column about "male linguistic chauvinism" and could add a few more to this his'n herstory. (How about when a woman falls down a manhole?)

But today my beef concerns double-standard labels. Why shouldn't "promiscuous" also be "promistercuous?" When a woman gets around, she's called loose, trampy, etc., but whoever heard of a "fallen" or promiscuous man? Oh, no — he's admired as a guy the girls can't resist.

A man I knew in the Army overseas shacked up with half a dozen women, then told his wife to get lost when some busybody informed him she had one brief affair.

If men can gather their rosebuds where they may, why do women get the blame? — FOR EQUALITY

DEAR F.E.:

. . .Because the double standard is still alive and well in middle-class America: when a little "rosebud" turns up in too many bouquets, she's labeled "skunk cabbage," often by the man who picked her first. . .and almost always by women who fear their husbands will be next.

But times are changing. These days a womanizer is beginning to get more laughs than admiration; and a female pushover, more pity than ostracism (unless she's after your husband). Perhaps when women demand full equality, the "single standard" may make a few promiscuous spouses think twice. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm not one to let little things bother me, so when the open-knitted, nothing-underneath dress was described by one of your readers, I let it pass.

Then I saw one at the club and let me tell you, I was shocked. The dame was a looker, and so was everyone else.

It was the first time in my life I felt like doing a little nitpicking. — BACHELOR

DEAR BACH:

. . .Spelled with a "k," naturally? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Some doctors say women stay romantic even after the age of 80. What this group of men wants to know is: why didn't it happen to our wives?

They're all about 50, and they've decided to "put aside young things." So they spend their time at club meetings, wear their dresses below the knee, won't have anything to do with sports or any of their husbands' activities, and their war cry is, "I'm too tired."

Their husbands have to make all the advances, and even then they get put off. But when we men let our eyes wander to other women, you should hear the old "I gave you the best years of my life" line.

They forget that a man is human and needs to know he's loved. Where did the romance go after 50? Come to think of it, my wife stopped being romantic soon after the honeymoon. Did I pick a lemon or are they mostly all like that, as my male friends tell me? — LOST-OUT HUSBAND

DEAR LOH:

No, wives aren't mostly all like that. But, according to Masters and Johnson, about 50 per cent of married people (not necessarily married to each other) feel their sex lives are inadequate. . .and this isn't just in the over-50 group. .

A marriage counselor might help, though you should have consulted him years ago. — H.

Truth Campaign Confrontation

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The continuing campaign for "truth" in packaging, labeling, lending and other matters is heading for a confrontation with "beauty business" which sells $5 billion worth of cosmetics each year to American men and women.

In the latest episode, President Nixon's consumer aide, Virginia Knauer, sent letters to 19 cosmetic manufacturers with three leading questions. Her aim is to persuade them to disclose all major product ingredients on the labels.

She was following up an action taken earlier this year by the Food and Drug Administration when it proposed a voluntary system of providing this information to consumers.

In her letters (released July 9), Mrs. Knauer asked whether the firms already disclose such information to consumers or doctors (for use in case of injurious reactions). She also asked whether the firms planned to comply with the FDA proposals.

TO INCREASE the possibilities of getting prompt answers, she announced that she would report the results in the second week of August.

She called particular attention to the problem of allergic reactions, which have been increasing in recent years. She said "many consumers want to know the ingredients of cosmetic products so they can avoid allergic or sensitizing reactions."

Largely due to earlier efforts of Mrs. Knauer, leaders of the industry joined together last year to propose a voluntary system of labeling ingredients and registering such information with the government.

The FDA proposals were in response to this move.

Meanwhile, several manufacturers have begun to list ingredients. They include Aon Products and AR-EX Products Co. in addition, several retail firms have begun to demand content information on products they sell. These firms include Osco Drugs and Giant Food stores.

Many cosmetics products disclose one or two of their major ingredients, but few list all of them. Some also warn of the possibility of irritations and other reactions, but there are few requirements for such information.

MANY CONSUMERS assume that cosmetics must be tested and proved safe for human use before they can be sold. But such is not the case. Efforts to get a law to that effect have been unsuccessful largely because of the political power of the industry which opposes the idea.

The administration's willingness to push a voluntary system isa clue to the industry's power to resist mandatory requirements.

Most consumer advocates feel that voluntary regulations will not work. They point out that previous administrations also applied their persuasive skills with extremely few results. The fact is that the contents of beauty aids are often considered to be trade secrets.

Numerous members of Congress have tried to get a law passed to require cosmetic safety and full disclosure of ingredients. In fact, such authority was added to the Product Safety Act approved by the Senate last month. The bill presently awaits action in the House.

The chances of getting such a law passed may depend somewhat on the type of response received by Mrs. Knauer from manufacturers. Meanwhile, consumers can help the cause and themselves by buying products that list their contents.

90-MINUTE SOLO SHOW

Black Actress Proves She Can Charm Critics

By PEACE MOFFAT

NEW YORK (AP) — Vinie Burrows is a gutsy actress who has the nerve to think she can stand on a stage for an hour and a half and entertain an audience all by herself.

But the amazing thing is — she can — and won great acclaim from New York critics for her one-woman show, "Walk Together Children," which she calls a "journey into the black experience."

In her apartment here that looks almost like a country home — with plants hanging from the ceiling, tomatoes ripening on the terrace, warm, wood-grained furniture and stacks and stacks of books. Miss Burrows settled her tiny frame into a rocking chair and discussed her work.

With her hair wrapped in a turban, and wearing a blue shirt and slacks, she looked more like a housewife — which she is, with a husband of 19 years and two children — than an actress, director, producer and businesswoman, which she also is and has to be to keep her show going.

"I WAS born and grew up in New York City," she begins. "I remember when I was about 6 — it must have been something I said, but a lady said to my mother, 'Oh, she's going to be an actress.' After that I was so inspired I went to Central Park and practiced speaking with pebbles in my mouth."

She was graduated from high school with a beautician's license, however, because her mother felt an actress's career wasn't entirely respectable. Miss Burrows also learned as a teen-ager about the special problems black actresses have to face.

"When I was in high school, I read about a woman who tutored actresses," she said. "I wrote for an appointment, and went to her Park Avenue apartment. A butler opened the door, and ushered me upstairs. The woman was floored that I was a black. She said, 'I've never taught one before,' and refused to teach me. I said, 'Well, I won't cry in front of you,' walked down the stairs and the butler let me out."

Miss Burrows didn't give up, although she was later told she would end up playing only the roles of maids. She majored in pre-law at New York University, but later became associated with the American Negro Theater, made her Broadway debut with Helen Hayes in "The Wisteria Trees" and appeared in six other Broadway shows and several off-Broadway.

The actress's career as a monologist began in 1963.

"I had done the shows, but I still wasn't getting any real satisfaction," she said. "So I thought I could assemble a one-woman show. It took a lot of courage and work. The first one was a series of vignettes from theatrical literature. I made no money but it was received well. Then I did a show called 'Shout Freedom,' about all kinds of personal freedom, and 'Dark Fire,' about the folklore of Africa."

HER PRESENT program, which has closed in New York, but will be taken to other cities, began when Miss Burrows was asked to perform for a church here.

"I'd thought of doing a peace show," she says, "but they told me they'd had a lot of those, and suggested I do something about the black experience. So I did, and it was a great success. I worked on it for a year — expanded it — and the show really opened in 1968."

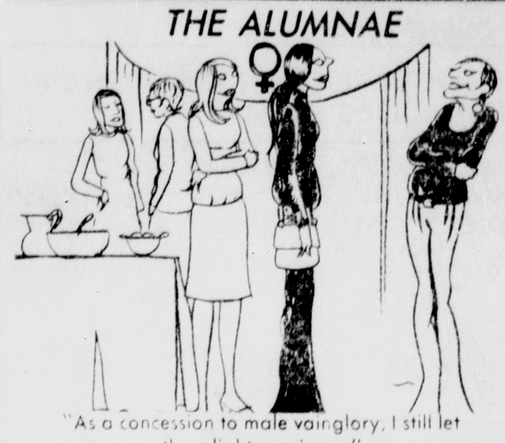
Since then it has appeared across the country, and off-Broadway.

"Walk Together Children" is a mix of prose, poetry and song, using the actual words of ex-slaves, historical figures and the writings of modern black authors.

One thing Miss Burrows feels is a strong reaction to the question of her "black militancy."

"That's a press word — it's like waving a red flag in front of a bull," she exclaims. "Did you call Patrick Henry a militant? I am certainly more conscious now of the fact that everything we do has political overtones. We have to realize how interrelated all aspects of our lives are. There are bigger problems than that I'm black and you're white, but if we can't solve those human relations problems, how can we begin to cope with the larger ones, like taking care of our world?"

THE ALUMNAE



"As a concession to male vainglory, I still let them light my cigars."

Expert Disregards A Poetic Ode To Bring Off A Victory

People don't recite as much poetry as they used to. In the old days you might go to a gathering at the White House or Buckingham Palace and hear a stirring rendition of "Casey at Bat"; and once a famous poet graced an American inauguration. Not any more. That's why I hate to bad-mouth one of the best-known short poems in the English language: "With eight ever, with nine never." I want you to know that there are tears in my eyes as I write this.

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:

♥- A 10 4 2
♦- J 8 7 4
♣- K 6 5 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs, planning to raise the hearts later. The hand is too strong for an immediate raise to two hearts.

TRUMP ACTION

When today's hand was played in the world Bridge Olympiad last month at the American Hotel in Miami Beach, Janusz Pietruk of the Polish team disdained poetry in the management of the trump suit.

We must begin at the beginning. Jim Jacoby, of the United States team, opened the four of clubs from the West hand. Dummy's jack held the first trick, and East played a rather significant nine of clubs. Declarer concluded that West had led a fourth-best card and that East's nine had been a singleton.

LEADS KING

Pietruk began the trumps by leading the king of spades from the dummy. When only low spades appeared on this trick, declarer led a low spade from dummy. East followed suit with the six of spades, and now declarer had to decide whether to finesse or play the ace of spades.

Students of bridge and lovers of poetry know that in this situation you are advised to finesse for the missing queen when you have eight cards of the suit in your own hand and dummy combined; but that you are advised to play for the drop when you have nine cards. This advice is summed up in that little poem: "With eight ever, with nine never." (Always finesse with eight cards; never with nine.)

DIVISION OF CLUBS

But the division of the clubs altered the odds. There was more room in the East hand (with a singleton club) than in the West hand (with four clubs) for the queen of spades. So Pietruk, disregarding the famous poem, took a trump finesse and made his contract.

A story like this should have a moral: Don't believe all you read in the poetry books.

Contribution Plan Defeated

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill tightening reporting requirements for campaign spending was rejected by the Senate Monday after one lawmaker said it would "open up the biggest can of worms I've seen in a long, long time."

The measure by Sen. Alfred Alquist, D-San Jose, would require that the source and amount of all contributions of $100 or more be reported to the secretary of state. Currently, only amounts in excess of $500 are required to be reported.

The proposal was defeated on an 18-15 vote with 21 needed for approval.

Geary Aglow, Godspell Opens

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — The Geary Theater was aglow last night. There was something special taking place.

There on stage was a clown-faced black Jesus teaching man to live with his neighbors. A challenge? Yes.

It was all wrapped up in the rock musical, "Godspell," which arrived for what should be a long and joyful stay.

Based on the Gospel according to St. Matthew, "Godspell" is a statement of love based on the parables and teachings of Jesus presented through delightful music, mime, lots of laughter and even a few tears.

The musical unfolds with members of the cast portraying such thinkers as Sartre, Leonardo da Vinci and Buckminster Fuller in their own "Tower Of Babble." But then the whole spectrum changes with the appearance of the clowned-faced Jesus with his painted nose, rouged cheeks and Superman sweatshirt. From that instant the evening explodes into an electrifying experience.

"Godspell" is not a "Jesus Freak" happening nor does it resemble the equally-popular "Jesus Christ Superstar." Its theme is the divinity of the Nazarene, far more universal in approach than "Superstar."

As Jesus, Stacker Thompson glows with warmth. He holds center stage softly, but it is very infectious.

His spirit is rapidly transformed. The disciples seem to ooze with a childlike quality that makes you want to shout with joy.

Out of the nine — Jon Buffington, Angela Ruth Elliott, Laurie Faso, Lois Foraker, Patti Mariano, Kitty Rea, Tom Rolfing, Craig Schaefer and Cle Thompson — it is hard to pick a real star for casting is so strong and evenly matched. Members' own names are used by the play's characters.

The cast takes to Stephen Schwartz's musical score like gangbusters. And the music has a wide audience appeal — rock, folk, country and western.

The music comes on so rapidly, it's hard to select a favorite, but "Day By Day," By My Side," "We Beeseech Thee" and "Bless The Lord" linger in the mind.

If Schwartz's excellent score is not enough, the cast sells the musical with trigger-tight dialogue, excellent mime and even soft shoe patter.

Backdrop for the musical resembles a circus cage with a minimum use of props. The small orchestra is perched above the action on either side of the stage. The music is amplified by huge speakers.

Originally brought to New York by director John-Michael Tebelak, the musical's local direction was handled expertly by Nina Faso and the colorful clown costumes by Susan Tsu further enhanced the evening.

Nearly three years ago another rock musical, "Hair" arrived at the Geary as the hottest ticket in town. When the word spreads, "Godspell" is a sure repeater. It has to be seen to be savored. The Broadway cast album is just a teaser.

For a joyous evening, the line forms at the Geary, so get there soon before the "standing room only" sign goes up.

"GODSPELL" — A two-act musical based upon the Gospel according to St. Matthew. Presented by the American Conservatory Theater of San Francisco. An Edgar Lansbury, Stuart Duncan, Joseph Beruh production. Music and new yrics by Stephen Schwartz; directed by Nina Faso; lighting, Spencer Mosse; musical director, Steve Reinhardt; costumes, Susan Tsu. The cast: Jon Buffington, Angela Ruth Elliott, Laurie Faso, Lois Foraker, Patti Mariano, Kitty Rea, Tom Rolfing, Craig Schaefer, Cle Thompson and Stacker Thompson.

Novato School Trustees Pass Publication Budget

The Novato Unified School District board last night approved a $10,768,253 publication budget for fiscal 1972-73, up $197,893 from the previous year.

"The increase is due mainly to an increase in the debt payment to the state, dental and medical insurance and unemployment insurance," says Supt. James G. Bunker.

Bunker said that the figures in the budget would change before the final budget is adopted, because a new law changes the unemployment rate for schools.

"This one item alone should reduce our unemployment insurance from $65,000 a year to $15,000 a year for a saving of $50,000," Bunker estimated.

Trustees present unanimously approved the budget. Carolyn Crabtree and Marett B. Boissevain were absent.

The Novato Unified School District Board also:

EASEMENT — Refused to grant an easement or to consider selling a 50-by-5-foot strip at the southeast end of Hill Junior High School for widening of Hill Road to give Paul Pickart wider access to his property at the end of Hill Road. Trustee William G. Schneeflock said that the city had given Pickart "a raw deal in preventing him from developing five acres at the end of the road by demanding a 24-foot-wide egress instead of the existing 20 feet. Schneeflock said that the city could grant a variance to Pickart and his developers, Kagon-Bennett Inc.

HIGH SCHOOL — Approved renting for one year at $600 per month, a suite of offices in the Novato Central Building at Grant Avenue and Fifth Street for the North Marin High School, the continuation high school. The school has been housed for the past three years in a building at 856 Sweetser but it did not meet the earthquake standards of the Field Act. The board authorized the staff to continue looking for permanent quarters for the school.

REPORTS — Received a report on the language program for kindergarten through sixth grade, but asked that the committee continue study on more specific programs instead of generalizing on what should be taught. It accepted the report on the program for reading and languages for junior and senior high schools.

SUPPLIES — Approved accepting contracts with nine firms for $15,844 in custodial supplies for next school year.

CAFETERIA — Accepted the cafeteria report for last school year in which the district made $8,061 profit on sales of $156,561. This was the first time that the district cafeterias have operated at a profit. The board increased the price from five to six cents for milk next year because that program lost money. It then voted to apply the profits to about $7,500 in fringe benefits for cafeteria workers.

MECHANICS — Authorized the staff to go ahead with plans to add a classroom and workshop building in a portion of the storage area in the auto-mechanics department at Novato High School. The money would come out of $20,000 left in bond money.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Aug. 1 in the lecture hall at Novato High School.

Petaluma Lecture

Zen Buddhist Raoul Castillo will give a lecture and art demonstration at the Kenilworth Recreation Center in Petaluma today at 8 p.m.

Wild 24 Hours For The Rolling Stones

BOSTON (UPI)—The Rolling Stones, who started the day getting bombed in Montreal, wound up the day getting "busted" in Rhode Island.

The highly popular rock group, which is making a series of appearances across the country and in Canada, was in seclusion at an undisclosed location today while resting and getting set for its second concert in Boston.

Mick Jagger, lead singer of the group, and Keith Richard, another member of the Stones, and three members of their entourage were arrested last night in Warwick, R.I. when the group objected to a news photographer who was taking pictures of them.

Earlier, some of the Stones' sound equipment was damaged when a predawn explosion erupted outside the Forum in Montreal, where the group played Monday night.

Also arrested were Marshall Chess, a record producer who is gathering material for an album of "live" concerts, Stanley Moore and Robert Frank. Police said Moore and Frank were acting as bodyguards for the group.

Jagger and Chess were accused of obstructing police who were trying to make an arrest. Richard and Moore were charged with simple assault upon Providence Journal-Bulletin photographer Andy Dickermen and Frank was charged with assault on a uniformed police officer.

Frank, the only one charged with a felony, was released on $100 cash bail after a quick arraignment. The others were released in $50 cash and all were ordered to return for a hearing Aug. 23 at Warwick District Court.

The group left Warwick in chartered buses and got on stage for a concert at the Boston Garden at 12:48 a.m.— almost four hours later than scheduled.

Novato Group Opposes Hamilton Joint-Use

The Novato Environmental Quality Committee opposes joint civilian-military air use of Hamilton Air Force Base, according to administrative assistant Rodney B. Brown.

Committee members voted Monday night in opposition to joint use after a report from two members of the city's airport study committee, which voted last week against civilian flights at the base.

Environmental committee members believed that joint use would create additional air pollution and additional noise, and the ultimate use would far exceed the proposed initial 20 flights a day, Brown reported.

Airport study committee representatives reported that joint use would bring an increase in auto traffic and that additional studies are needed.

Members Dr. Gregory J. Graham and Stanford A. Warner were absent at the committee meeting. The committee adjourned to its next regular meeting at 8 p.m. Aug. 7 at the community house.

Petition Hits Parking Lot

The Mill Valley City Council has received a petition from Parents of the American Little League players, urging rejection of a proposed commuter parking lot on Tamalpais High School lands.

The petition, signed by 94 members, asked the council to instead use the lands — located on the eastern portion of the high school site — for educational or recreational purposes.

The council accepted the petition Monday without comment.

Tamalpais Board To Reschedule Meeting

The Tamalpais Fire Protection District board will not meet tomorrow night because of lack of a quorum, Bernard Lenhart, board secretary, has announced.

Instead, the board will meet July 26 at 8 p.m. in the Tam district sanitary office, he said.

Bremer Is Safely Tucked Away As Prisoners Riot

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI) — While four deputies with shotguns guarded Arthur H. Bremer, lawmen restored order today in the third Maryland prison disturbance in four days.

Bremer was in the Prince Georges County jail, about 12 miles southeast of Washington, awaiting his July 31 trial on state charges of trying to assassinate Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

Bremer, however, was far from the turmoil Tuesday night that envolved during its peak 140 inmates who burned mattresses and briefly held three hostages, according to Sheriff Don E. Ansell. The hostages were released unharmed.

The inmates said they had grievances about medical facilities, legal material at the jail library and Warden John Shallcross.

"Shallcross lies to us," said inmate Larry B. Smith, a spokesman for the prisoners. "He doesn't listen to our problems."

Prince Goerges County Executive William W. Gullett said the disturbance "can be attributed to the atmosphere, the humidity—the heat."

The U.S. Weather Service reported the humidity was 85 per cent Tuesday night and reached 91 per cent early today.

The concrete and metal cells, eight feet wide and 100 feet long, are not air conditioned.

County police said a second disorder began at 2:35 a.m. and was quelled about 3:25 a.m. when prisoners returned to their cells. Police said no hostages were taken during the second disorder, no injuries were inflicted and no fires were started.

County public works employes have begun repairs on the jail and Maryland state police and county police have returned to normal assignments.

At the start of the four-hour outbreak, fires were set in bedding. Damage was not extensive, Ansell said. Only one injury was reported, a prisoner who became ill from smoke inhalation.

The rebellious inmates—led by about 25 defiant men according to Ansell—controlled the upper floor of the jail. Bremer was on the first floor.

The disturbance was the third since Saturday when inmates of the Maryland House of Corrections at Jessup captured hostages and caused an estimated $1.5 million in damages before presenting grievances to Gov. Marvin Mandel.

Prisoners at the Maryland state penitentiary in Baltimore also met with Mandel after disturbances Monday.

The Baltimore and Jessup inmates complained of poor medical care and bad food, and asked for some prison employes to be fired.

In reaction Tuesday, 130 guards conducted a three-hour work stoppage in Baltimore to protest alleged coddling of prisoners by Mandel. The guards said they feared for their safety since no punitive action was in store for the rebels.

Attica Prison Under Emergency Operation

ATTICA, N.Y. (UPI) — A temporary state of emergency was put in effect Tuesday at Attica State Prison where hundreds of protesting inmates have refused to leave their cells to eat or work.

Superintendant Ernest L. Montanye said the emergency measure was essential for the orderly operation and "to assure the safety and security of the personnel, inmates and facility property."

He said the situation would be evaluated on a day-to-day basis and the order would be cancelled when, in his judgement, "the situation has reached its conclusion."

The strike began Monday apparently sparked when a popular nurse, Mrs. Mary Kingsley, was relieved of her position. She was rehired Monday night and back at her job Tuesday.

It was believed the inmates were also protesting the state's alleged failure to implement 28 prisoner demands issued during last September's bloody riot that claimed 43 lives.

Montanye met for a half hour with members of the prisoner's liaison committee and another meeting was scheduled for today. Montanye said "some progress" was madeat the meeting but he would not elaborate.

He confirmed that "we have extra officers on duty as a precautionary measure."

A spokesman for the State Corrections Department in Albany said all visiting rights to the prison were cancelled during the emergency in order to limit unnecessary movement to and from the maximum security facility.

Some 800 inmates refused to leave their cells early Tuesday but by dinner time the number had dwindled to about 650 of the 1,200 prisoners at Attica.

In a joint "appeal to the public" the Attica unit of the State Civil Service Employes Association and Local 1040 of Council 82, which represents guards at the prison, called upon state police to compliment the force of correctional officers at the facility.

Gary Davis, president of the Attica CSEA unit, said the plea for state police was being issued because of the critical shortage of help at the facility.

Davis, who is also a teacher at the prison, said he and 11 other instructors visited with inmates Tuesday and asked them questions. He said one of the typical answers he heard was "I'd rather do this now than be caught up in a riot in two weeks."

Court Declares Cause Of Queen Elizabeth Fire

HONG KONG (AP) — The fire that destroyed the former luxury liner Queen Elizabeth Jan. 9 was probably deliberately caused by persons unknown, a marine court of inquiry said today.

"There were at least three major sites of fire, all of them occuring within minutes of each other, and there may have been other independent sites as well," the court said after a two-month inquiry ordered by the Hong Kong government.

"While there is no direct and conclusive evidence on the matter, the court is also satisfied that by far the most likely cause of the fires was a series of deliberate acts by a person or persons unknown."

Welding and cigarettes were ruled out as possible causes of the fire.

The 83,000-ton ship, once the pride of the Cunard fleet, had been bought by Hong Kong shipping magnate C. Y. Tung, and was undergoing renovation to be used as a floating university. The work was almost complete when fire engulfed the ship at anchor in Hong Kong harbor.

City Airport Names New Security Chief

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Edward J. Nevin, 57, a veteran policeman and chief of the city Housing Authority patrol force, was named Tuesday as the new chief of security at San Francisco International Airport.

Nevin will receive $21,636 a year in the new position, the Airport Commission said at its regular meeting. He will coordinate the acitivies of the FBI, San Mateo County Sheriff's Department and Federal Aviation Administration at the airport.

Post World War I Peace Backer Dies

NEWTOWN, Conn. (UPI)— Raymond B. Fosdick, former president of the Rockefeller Foundation who once served as first undersecretary of the League of Nations, died Tuesday at the age of 89.

A graduate of Princeton University and New York Law School, Fosdick came from a long line of Buffalo, N.Y. clergymen.

He began his career as assistant corporation counsel under New York City Mayor George G. McClellan.

His association with the Rockefeller interests began when John D. Rockefeller Jr. appointed him to study European and American police methods for Rockefeller's Bureau of Social Hygiene, the agency from which the Rockefeller Foundation grew.

During the Mexican border dispute of 1916, Fosdick served as special representative of the secretary of war with the expeditionary force led by Gen. John J. Pershing. His War Department service continued in World War I when he served on the department's committee on training camps and later as an aide to Pershing in France.

President Woodrow Wilson appointed Fosdick as the top U.S. representative to the League of Nations.

Rogers Hits McGovern In 'Non-Political' Talk

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Secretary of State William P. Rodgers, vigorously defending the Nixon administration's foreign policy, said yesterday a U.S. return to isolationism is impossible.

"As much as we'd like to 'come back to America,' we can't do it," Rogers told a luncheon audience of 400 persons. "We're too involved in the world. We have to play this role."

Rogers also said that a $36 billion defense spending cut "or any cut on that order of magnitude" would make the United States a secondary power.

The Secretary of State, in a "non-political" speech before the Commonwealth Club, struck out at policies advocated by Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern.

He said the huge defense cuts proposed by McGovern would "undermine our alliances overnight" and "would soon put us in a secondary military position."

Rogers said the administration's success in reaching peaceful accords with Russia and China was based on its parallel policy of military strength.

The U. S. cannot abandon its role as a world leader, he said.

"Any one who suggests, for political or other reasons, that it would serve our national interest to become isolationist, or that peace will result from our withdrawing from the world, just doesn't understand the world," he said.

Asked after his speech whether the North Vietnamese might be influenced to hold out longer in the hope of an advantage if McGovern is elected, Rogers replied: "At the moment it is quite clear that President Nixon is going to win the election."

ATt that point the audience cheered him, and he said the North Vietnamese know this and so might choose to negotiate now in hopes of getting better terms from Nixon before the election.

In his speech, Rogers said the recent improvement in U. S. relations with Russia and China took place without abandoning any of other American alliances or weakening U. S. defenses.

BRIAN W. MATTSON
"I don't see the single-family detached home going."

Planning Director Doesn't Share Fears For Novato

By FRANK FARRARA

Novato, a suburb born of single-family detached homes, has been fretting that an influx of townhouses and apartments will elbow aside that housing tradition.

While some have visions of another Los Angeles or a San Jose being created across the semirural lands, Novato Planning Director Brian W. Mattson doesn't share that apprehension.

"I don't see the single-family detached home going," Mattson said the other day in his office.

He foresaw, however, the single-family detached home being "placed on the land" in a different manner than in past subdivisions.

"Rysee more and more planned unit development and less of the conventional subdivision," he said. "I would like to see more clustering."

For example, he cited the Bahia waterfront project where homes are clustered somewhat in the manner of a fishing village.

On townhouses, which planners label single-family attached dwellings, Mattson commented: "I don't see being inundated with townhouses. I think townhouses are an alternate way to provide a single-family dwelling and a more efficient way to use the land."

One of the reasons residents have been concerned about townhouses is that "they're still an unknown . . . none is occupied yet," he said.

Mattson said that higher density developments such as townhouses and apartments are appropriate in flat area close to downtown but wouldn't be appropriate in other areas because of topographical conditions, such as in hill areas.

With plans and applications for townhouses running well ahead of those for single-family detached homes, Mattson commented, "I think builders are responding to the market."

Mattson, who recently was house hunting in Novato, attributed the popularity of townhouses, in part, to the high cost of single-family homes.

Townhouses suit the needs of young couples without children and "empty nesters," older couples whose children have left home, he said.

Young couples living in townhouses probably will seek a single-family detached home when their families grow, he said.

In the city's housing element, these points of life at which housing needs change were listed as:

"A. Leave high school and home for the first time.

B. Get married.

C. First child born.

D. More children born.

E. First child reaches school age.

F. Divorce-separation-widowed.

G. Major illness strikes family.

H. Last child grows up and leaves home.

I. Retire.

The concern that Novato would be overrun with townhouses and apartments came from neighborhood committees studing the housing element and has been echoed at planning commission meetings as individual projects were reviewed.

The planning department has estimated that developments under construction or expected to start construction this year would include 826 apartment units, 749 townhouse units and 398 single family detached units.

The two largest projects are Parkhaven (214 units on the former Oliva Ranch) and the McKeon Corporation project at Highway 101 and South Novato Boulevard (410 units).

Yet to be decided is the number of units to be permitted on the Pacheco Ranch, south of Loma Verde and west of Highway 101, where U.S. Development Corp. submitted plans for 400 townhouses and 300 apartment units.

Yet Mattson is convinced there will always be single-family homes. "The guy with three, four or five kids isn't looking at townhouses," he said.

Applicant Secrecy To Be Lifted

By JEFF GREER

Marin County Board of Education members tentatively agreed last night to lift their 16-year veil of secrecy from selection of appointees to fill vacancies on the board.

They voted 6-0 to form a committee to draft a new policy providing for public screening of appointees when vacancies occur in the future.

But the board members again balked, despite the county counsel's opinion, at divulging names of past applicants. The candidates, the board said, had been promised anonymity.

The Independent-Journal had requested names of the four unsuccessful applicants considered when William L. Sisk of Novato was chosen in May to fill a board vacancy. The board took no action last night on a letter from Bryan R. McCarthy, I-J attorney, who wrote that "unless this information is made available forthwith, it is the intention of the Independent-Journal to seek a court order in this matter."

McCarthy's letter cited the Ralph M. Brown Act, a section of the Government Code requiring open deliberations and actions of public bodies, and the Public Records Act.

Richard V. Godino, assistant county counsel, had written, "I am of the opinion that the names cannot be kept confidential," after the education board asked him for an opinion last month.

Member Patrick W. Pollock of San Anselmo tried last night to get the board to request higher opinion from the state attorney general's office. He lost by a 4-2 vote, with only Lee C. Richardson Jr. of Inverness supporting him. Pollock had called Godino's opinion "not convincing."

After his motion lost, Pollock said, "I've been a majority spokesman," on favoring secrecy at past meetings, " but if the majority wants it, I'll not be obstructionist." He then voted for the policy change committee moved by member James A. Carroll of Ross.

After the policy change vote, Marilyn Crowell of San Rafael, newly elected president of the board, asked Godino what the board should do about the I-J's request for the names.

"You have a threatened lawsuit . . . I don't know whether you want to hear me in public," Godino said.

"Thank you, no," Mrs. Crowell replied.

Three audience members criticized the board's secrecy during the 90-minute debate.

Mill Valley resident Eugene A. Miller — a Marin Municipal Water District director — said "the public would be served far better" by open handling of board vacancies. "Playing games with a legal point" of the board's longstanding policy "smacks poorly with the public," he said.

His wife charged that the education panel was "a very isolated board."

Pieter Toal of San Anselmo asked for the names of "the others besides Sisk" who applied.

"Thank you — and we will go ahead to deliberate other items on the agenda," was Mrs. Crowell's only response.

Miller proposed that the board publicly call for recruits to fill vacancies, give ample time for applications, interview applicants openly — even allowing the audience to question candidates at a screening hearing — "and then if you desire, deliberate in closed session" on the board's choice. "That would be understandable," Miller said. He said his water board experience convinced him that the public should be informed as fully as possible.

Pollock said picking a candidate to fill a brief, unexpired term "really isn't the same as an election." He argued that the publicity and the possibility of not being chosen by the board would make it difficult to find applicants who would "best serve the public interest."

Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, first said, "I'd say we lost a considerable number" of potential applicants who feared being publicly passed over for the board. But then he declared that the board's secrecy policy had been followed since 1956, when a death created the first vacancy on the board.

"I'd say five out of seven" applicants "are not interested in having their names divulged," Hollis said.

"Three of the five persons" considered when Sisk was chosen "would like to have their names published," Toal said.

Pollock and Hollis reported that Hollis asked 121 organizations in the Novato area for suggestions before Sisk was appointed, and only five people were willing to seek the seat.

Mrs. Crowell appointed Carroll chairman of the three-man committee to draft the new policy on appointments, and Pollock and Sisk as members.

Asst. Supt. Robert E. Spain said the old secrecy policy would remain in effect until the board adopts new rules.

After the meeting, Hollis told the Independent-Journal that despite the board's secrecy, he'd had to "beat the bushes to find anyone interested" in filling vacancies. During the months of criticism of the policy, he said, the board "had a tiger by the tail and didn't know how to let go," due to the secrecy declaration printed in the recruiting statements sent to Novato area organizations.

Carroll and Glen E. Robinson of Mill Valley were the only members of the present board originally elected to seats; the rest first served as appointees. Some have been elected to repeat terms, Hollis said.

Jury School Report Disappoints Hollis

Dr. Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, said last night he was disappointed at the Marin County Grand Jury's recent evaluation of the county schools department.

However, Hollis told the Marin County Board of Education, the jury's education committee didn't really mean what it seemed to be saying about fiscal responsibility, the Juvenile Hall's school and other facets of the department, Hollis told the Marin County Board of Education.

He said the probers didn't understand the complexities of the job that require a full-time principal for the Loma Alta School at the Juvenile Hall.

The jury's education committee recommended abolishing the principal's post in favor of a teaching principal or a lead teacher.

The jury also noted that the past year was the first in which the county Board of Education had control of its budget, the power to spend without seeking approval by the County Supervisors.

The report stated, "it appears . . . that the board is accepting their full responsibility for the expenditure of the taxpayer's money" but called on Hollis to "accept his responsibility not only to provide excellent and complete services but to consider the costs of these services very carefully" and to restrain costs "even if it means elimination of some of the less needed services."

What the jury "really wanted to say," Hollis told the board "was . . . that the board and the superintendent are keeping fiscal matters in control,' but it didn't come out quite that way."

Hollis said he would give the education board his detailed reply to the grand jury report at a later meeting.

The Marin County Board of Education Also:

REORGANIZATION — Elected Marilyn Crowell of San Rafael as president and Patrick W. Pollock of San Anselmo as vice president.

MEETING — Changed the date of the next regular meeting from Aug. 1 to 8 p.m. Aug. 8, to coincide with the board's scheduled public hearing on the budget.

TRANSFER — After a closed session, overrode the Sausalito School District and granted Doris Berdahl permission to send her son to a school in Mill Valley. It routinely approved permitting five San Francisco students to attend Tamalpais High School and one to attend a Mill Valley school.

CHARITY — Approved letting county school employees sign for a payroll deductions of donations to the Combined Health Agencies Drive, a separate organization from the United Bay Area Crusade.

PRISON — Approved what Hollis said would probably be the final list of graduates from Bayview School, the inmates' facility at San Quentin Prison. The graduation will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the prison's Garden Chaple.

PRESCHOOL — Approved applying for $59,800 in state funds to finance three compensatory education programs next fall.

CUTBACKS — Heard Hollis report that although the office had to notify 54 teachers in May that they face loss of jobs due to shrinking enrollment, attrition had solved the surplus problem.

Pair Pleads Guilty To Two Counts

Two San Francisco men charged with robbing, kidnaping and raping a Mill Valley woman have pleaded guilty to two of the charges and have agreed to go to state prison.

Charles Moultry, 23, and Louis Charles Lee, 22, admitted raping and robbing the women. The kidnaping count was dismissed by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court.

The two pleaded guilty Monday on condition that their sentences be concurrent and the judge put off sentencing to Aug. 25 to obtain a probation report.

Moultry and Lee were arrested March 29 by sheriff's deputies after a chase across the Golden Gate Bridge.

The 28-year-old victim gave law officers the description after the pair held her up in her driveway, then forced her to ride around Southern Marin while they took turns raping her at gunpoint.

Released two blocks from home, she immediately gave law officers a description of the two and their car, which the deputies sighted near Marin City.

Battered City Returns To Life

By DANIEL SOUTHERLAND
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

HUE, Vietnam — The City of Hue, virtually abandoned by its people two months ago, has snapped back to activity.

Sampans are floating again on the Perfume River. People are building temporary stalls at the market, burned out during the retreat from Quang Tri Province in early May.

Two months ago it was impossible to find a place where you could buy so much as a cup of tea in the former imperial city. Now most shops are open again.

Officials estimate that the population of the city is back up to 135,000, which is about 70 per cent of the original population. Two months ago, it was down to about 45,000.

The rector of the University of Hue says the university will open again when the regular semester begins in the fall.

Many of those who have returned to Hue have found that their homes were looted, not just by soldiers but by all sorts of people. But this is something which many Vietnamese have come to expect when they leave their homes.

Hue still is not as tranquil as it once was. North Vietnamese regiments in the green hills and mountains to the west still constitute a threat to the city.

B52 bombing raids rattle the windows of the city day and night.

Nervous sentries fire their weapons into the air at night. They also fire into the river and drop concussion grenades into the water in order to protect bridges and navy posts from mines and sappers.

Ten days ago, the North Vietnamese started hurling rockets and artillery shells into the city. Most of these have been landing in the citadel, where the Army's regional headquarters is located and where many Army dependents are living. Sixteen persons have been killed and 74 wounded by the shelling, most of them civilians.

The shelling has been more intensive than any which has occurred here since the Tet offensive of 1968.

The civilians have been moving out of the district that has absorbed nearly all of the shells and rockets. But most have simply gone to other districts in the city rather than moving all the way to Da Nang, as they did during the earlier exodus from Hue in May.

In one way, Hue seems more relaxed even than Saigon. The 9 p.m. curfew here is less strictly enforced than the 10 p.m. curfew in Saigon. People still can be seen outside their homes enjoying the coolness of the evening after the curfew begins, whereas Saigon is shut tight after 10 p.m.

It now is generally agreed that the North Vietnamese lost a splendid opportunity to take the city in early May. After the South Vietnamese 3rd Division abandoned Quang Tri Province to the north of here on May 1, the defenses of Hue were disorganized and the people were on the verge of panic.

One explanation given by U.S. military advisers for the failure of the North Vietnamese to follow up on their victory in Quang Tri was that they simply didn't expect Quang Tri to collapse as quickly as it did.

The Communists, who generally plan every move carefully, were not flexible enough to take advantage of South Vietnamese weaknesses at that point, advisers say.

If the North Vietnamese had taken Hue, they could have forced President Thieu to resign and to sue for peace, according to one high-ranking Saigon government official. He said that the loss of Hue would have completely demoralized the armed forces.

"They could have had Hue, but they didn't push," said a highly placed American military adviser. "Now they're not going to get it."

The South Vietnamese now are concerned about two North Vietnamese divisions, the 304th and the 308th, which have been moving from Quang Tri southward toward the northwestern corner of Thua Thien.

They fear that these two divisions may launch attacks to the east aimed at cutting off the paratroop brigade and marine division now operating in Quang Tri Province.

If the invaders could succeed in pinning dgwn the paratroops and marines in Quang Tri, it would then make sense for the Communist units to the west of Hue to launch new attacks against the defenses of Hue itself. This is one reason why the paratroops and marines in Quang Tri have been moving cautiously, attempting to secure the areas behind them as they push northward.

If the North Vietnamese fail to attack Hue before September, the rains which come then may slow them. The rain certainly will make it more difficult for them to move around their big artillery pieces and the ammunition trucks needed to supply the artillery. But the rain also hurts the South Vietnamese by hindering air strikes.

KNOW THE LAW

California Highway Patrol

How To Lose Driving Status

You are considered a negligent operator of a motor vehicle when your driving records shows: four points in 12 months; or six points in 24 months, or eight points in 36 months.

When a traffic conviction shows that a person drove a motor vehicle unsafely on a highway, it counts as one (1) point.

Many equipment violations (meaning that the vehicle itself is unsafe) also count as one (1) point.

Any accident for which the driver is judged responsible by the Department of Motor Vehicles is counted as one (1) point.

Two points are charged against you if you are convicted of: 1. Reckless driving (willful or wanton disregard for the safety of persons or property; 2. Driving while under the influence of an intoxication beverage; 3. Striking an unattended vehicle without notifying the owner, and 4. Causing property damage by hit-and-run driving.

Many serious offenses — too serious for a point count — in which vehicles are used (for example, felony drunken driving, felony grand theft, manslaughter, driving under the influence of narcotics or other dangerous drugs) are punishable by heavy penalties, such as fines and imprisonment. In addition, the DMV usually has to suspend or revoke the offender's privilege to drive.

If you get too many negligent driver points you are in danger of losing your privilege to drive in this state. You may be called to a hearing by the DMV to discuss your record. If you don't come to the hearing, the department may suspend or revoke your privilege to drive.

At the hearing a driver improvement analyst will talk with you. You will need to show him why your privilege to drive should not be suspended or revoked. If you are unable to do so, he may let you continue driving on condition that you have no more violations (probation); he may take your privilege to drive for a limited time (suspension); or he may take it away for a minimum of one year, after which you must apply for a new one (revocation).

Be alert in your daily driving and avoid the pit falls that may lead to the loss of your driving privilege.

Theft Of Raft

A six-man yellow rubber raft marked "U.S. Air Force" was stolen from his pickup truck, Brendan O'Hare reported to Larkspur police yesterday. O'Hare, of 101 Pepper Avenue, Larkspur, said the raft, worth $200, was taken during the night of July 15.

Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches, and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Fat Embolism Often Will Follow Crushing Injury To Soft Tissue

The wife of a South Dakota farmer writes: "I wonder how many of your readers have ever heard about fat embolism. It occurred to may husband when he fell off the barn and broke bones in both legs. After he got to the hospital and the fractures were set, he developed a fever, became short of breath and turned blue (cyanotic). He got well, but for 10 days, it was nip and tuck. Have you ever heard of fat embolism?

Yes. This puzzling condition usually follows crushing injuries to soft tissue, long bones (such as those in the legs), or extensive surgery on bones or fatty tissues. The liquid portion of ruptured fat cells is forced into the circulation and usually settles in the lungs or brain. Fat cells are tiny, but they almost explode on being released. They pass with ease through the larger vessels, but finally are trapped in the capillaries. Occasionally they appear in the skin of the chest wall or on the face as pinpoint (petechial) hemorrhages.

IN MOST instances, the fat cells invade the circulation within 72 hours of the injury or operation. Those that settle in the lungs obstruct the pulmonary circulation and other signs of oxygen deficiency. The skin turns blue, the temperature goes above normal, and the individual is very ill.

In the brain, fat embolism usually obstructs and injuries the small vessels of the white matter. The victim becomes confused, restless and is delirious, with twitching of the muscles and convulsion. All too often both brain and lungs are involved which is why shortness of breath and fever are common manifestations. The petechial hemorrhages in the skin are significant findings. Fat cells often can be found in the sputum and urine.

AT THE MAYO Clinic, the condition is called fat embolism syndrome. Between 1959 and 1968, there were 15 instances of at embolism at this medical center. Six of the victims died. Since 1968, there have been six more cases of the disease. (All lived.) In the majority, the injury took place during an automobile accident. All patients required oxygen and respiratory assistance. Corticosteroids and heparin were also useful.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

NIGHT TERRORS

A reader writes: Our little girl has been waking up every night, saying she is afraid. She won't go back to sleep unless I take her into bed with me. This is quite a change from her previous behavior. What should I do about it?

REPLY

Many youngsters go through this phase. Some parents take a firm stand and pack off the child into her own bed, after assuring her that everything is all right. Some keep the door open and sit with the child for a few minutes. Others allow the tot to share their bed until the sleeping pattern changes. The decision is difficult to make, but most parents realize when enough is enough. The child may cry a little at first, but that's the end of it. Always remember — a frightened child has no one other than the parents to call on for help.

SNAKE BITE

M.E. writes: Is the bite of a rattlesnake always fatal?

REPLY

Not necessarily, as many reports of survival are known. The chances are better when the bitten area is given proper treatment and antivenin is used.

Man Is Killed By Shotgun Blast

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—James Pollick, 24, was killed by a shotgun blast Tuesday during a fight in the parking lot of a tavern at nearby Mirabelle Park on the Russian River.

Sonoma County Sheriff's deputies said Pollick was shot with a 16-gauge shotgun after being dragged from an auto.

Richard R. Haring, 44, Larry R. Montoya, 21, George V. May, 31, and Owen Snodgrass, 18, all of Guerneville, were taken into custody.

Deputies did not disclose the reason for the fight.

San Rafael Man Given Sentence For Auto Theft

John Martin Green, 22, of San Rafael was sentenced yesterday in Marin Superior Court to nine months in jail for stealing a car.

Judge Henry J. Broderick also placed him on probation for three years and ordered him to pay $165 for towing and repairing the burned out clutch in the sports car he stole.

During probation he is to undergo drug testing and therapy at Marin Open House in San Rafael.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson found Green guilty in a trial without jury last month.

He stole an Austin-Healey Sprite in Fairfax March 6, then abandoned it several hours later in a Kentfield driveway. Green eluded officers at the time, but was arrested because the license plates on the stolen car were from a car registered to Green.

Crews On Job Despite Threat

Crews from Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael have returned to work at a grading job at the Indian Valley Medical Building at 1615 Hill Road, Novato.

Contractor Dino Ghilotti called his men off the job Saturday after a threatening note was left at the job site, indicating his property would be damaged if work continued. Workmen were back on the job Monday.

Novato police said 10 to 15 marking stakes had been pulled up and a note left demanding that $50 be placed in the coin return of the medical building public telephone by 7 p.m. Monday.

The note apparently was written by a young person, officers said. It demanded that crews top "recking" the hill and was signed "The Phantom."

Ghilotti said yesterday his equipment has been damaged on several different jobs in Marin recently, and Monday night someone put a dent in the radiator of a compactor on San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

Pact Is Reached In Contra Costa

MARTINEZ (UPI) — Tentative agreement was reached Tuesday in the three-week strike by Contra Costa County civil service employes.

Union and management officials said the pact would be reviewed Wednesday by the county Board of Supervisors and union officials.

The agreement called for pay hikes ranging from four per cent to 5.2 per cent. The unions had demanded a 7.5 per cent pay boost while the county had offered a 3.4 per cent hike.

Earlier a state conciliator said a settlement of the dispute was expected in a short time.

Loane Impressive In Raider Camp

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Oakland Raiders got a sneak preview of the kicking talents of John Loane who still has another year of football remaining at College of Marin.

Gordon Tovani, the barefoot kicker from San Rafael who tried out for the Raiders and lasted a couple of days before breaking an arm, took Loane with him for a workout at the Raiders' training camp in Santa Rosa the other day, on Loane's 19th birthday.

Out of 15 place kicks from the 50-yard line, Loane put 13 through the uprights. According to Tovani, Raider kicker Jerry DePoyster told him, "This kid kicks better than 30 per cent of current NFL kickers."

Then Loane, a former star at Drake High before College of Marin, punted a few with Dale Livingston, who is trying out with the Raiders. Loane's best one was good for 68 yards, beating the ex-Green Bay Packer kicker by a few yards. Exit Livingston in a huff, mumbling about that fresh kid.

LATEST WORD out of Dallas Cowboys' training camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif. is that former Terra Lindan Jim Sherbert (Oregon State) is having a rough time trying to make the squad as a free agent. He's having a little trouble with a recurring shoulder injury in a bid to win a spot as a linebacker for the Super Bowl champs.

Jim Crisp, the young man who played linebacker on the other side with Sherbert when the two were at Terra Linda High, is trying to win a job with the New York Giants, also as a free agent.

RON SNIDOW, the outstanding athlete who starred at San Rafael High School many semesters ago, has given up his retirement plans and, according to to a press release out of Cleveland, will get his job back as starting left defensive end. Joe (Turkey) Jones has been switched to right defensive end for the Browns. The 30-year-old Snidow, now a resident of Irvine after leaving San Rafael, wears number 88 so don't miss him when the Browns invade Candlestick Park to take on the 49ers in an exhibition game Aug. 13.

IT WILL BE Willie Mays' "homecoming weekend" in the Bay Area when the Mets take on San Francisco Friday night, Saturday and Sunday at Candlestick Park. I say "homecoming" although Mays called his return to New York as his "return to paradise." Some say that Mays actually left his heart in S.F. when traded to the Mets.

In addition to the Mays feature attraction Saturday, it will be Big Brothers Day when more than 300 members of the Big Brothers Organization from Northern California will be on hand. That should be a fun day for all those kids without dads.

Trying to upstage Mays Saturday will be Smokey the Bear, who will do his thing to emphasize California's fire prevention program. Smokey will also present a fireman's helmet, suitably inscribed, to the Giants' rookie relief specialist, Randy Moffitt, known by tennis buffs as Billie Jean Moffitt King's little brother.

Three No-Hitters Highlight Openers

The pitchers are still ahead of the hitters, at least in Little League baseball.

Three hurlers turned in no-hit, no-run performances yesterday in the first round of the major league county team championship tournament. Two more pitched shutouts, and another four yielded only one run.

Sean McCaffree of the Mill Valley American League Tigers barely missed a perfect game. The right hander walked the second man he faced in the fifth inning, but permitted no other baserunners in pitching the Tigers to a 6-0 victory over San Rafael National champion Dexter Toyota.

Phil Haman struck out 16 and walked four as he hurled the Gallinas Valley Lockes to a 5-0 triumph over the Strawberry Dolphins. Nate Gardner Tischbern hit a solo home run in the fifth inning for the Lockes.

Jay Hodgson of the Marinwood-Lucas Valley Caps gave up only two walks and fanned 13 in blanking the Sausalito Oaks, 5-0. He and Bill Weinmann hit doubles to key a five-run rally in the first inning.

In other action, the Tiburon

HANDS AND KNEES — Milwaukee Brewers baserunner John Felske (center) groped for home plate but was tagged out by Oakland catcher Dave Duncan in the first game of yesterday's doubleheader in Milwaukee. The Brewers' Brock Davis (22) looked on. Felske tried to score from second base on a single by Ron Theobald but was thrown out by A's left fielder Joe Rudi. Oakland won the game, 4-0, but lost the nightcap, 7-4. (UPI Telephoto)

A'S SPLIT

'Catfish' Wins His 12th Game

MILWAUKEE (UPI) —Mickey Lolich, Gaylord Perry, Jim Palmer and Sparky Lyle get the headlines, but the Oakland A's think they have the pitching ace of the American League on their staff.

He's Jim Hunter, who is showing last year's 21-win season was no fluke by hurling even better this season.

He stopped Milwaukee on five hits Tuesday in pitching his third shutout and running his record to 12-4 for the campaign. He fanned six and walked just one as the A's took the 4-0 decision.

Milwaukee came back to win the nightcap 7-4 behind Jim Lonborg. That Brewers victory snapped a five-game Oakland win skein, but the A's still lead the American League West by a solid 8 1-2 games as the Chicago White Sox lost another to continue their fast fade.

It will be John Odom (8-2) going for Oakland against Milwaukee in tonight's rematch.

Reggie Jackson, top vote-getting outfielder in the All Star poll, gave Hunter all the help he needed in the opener with his 18th homer and a run-scoring double.

In the nightcap, big Mike Epstein unloaded his 17th and 18th circuit clouts off Lonborg, who otherwise held Oakland in check on four hits through eight innings.

Campy Campaneris started a gallant Oakland comeback attempt in the ninth with a lead-off double. Joe Rudi grounded out but Jackson and Epstein singlej to account for one run and a sacrifice fly accounted for another. Gene Tenace singled and that brought in Frank Linzy for the tiring Lonborg. Linzy got the final out.

49ers See Rolf At Tackle

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Paul Wiggin, the San Francisco 49ers' defensive line coach, thinks the best position for Rolf Krueger will be the same one Rolf's brother Charlie plays — defensive tackle.

Rolf, 25, played out his option in 1971, his third season as a defensive end with the St. Louis Cardinals. Wiggin said, "We watched the films of Rolf against us and abviously we liked him — that's why we signed him after his option expired."

Rolf, whose playing weight is 250, didn't quite make the time limit in the 1¾ mile run earlier this week and admitted Tuesday he was "not in good shape."

But even were he speedier he'd have a hard time competing on pass rush with ends Tommy Hart and Cedrick Hardman, Wiggin noted, adding, "Eventually his best position may be at tackle."

Hardman, however, had knee surgery earlier this year and is something of an uncertainty.

Charlie Krueger, 35, has been a perennial standout over 13 seasons as a defensive tackle for the 49ers.

Babe Ruth Play Opens In Novato

Babe Ruth has come to Marin.

No, not the ghost of the legendary New York Yankee slugger — just the baseball league for 13-year-old boys which is named after him.

The District 9 Babe Ruth Baseball All-Star tournament, which was scheduled to begin late this afternoon at two sites in Novato, is the first Babe Ruth all-star competition ever to be held in Marin.

The nine-team, double-elimination tournament was to open today with Country Youth Club of Santa Rosa playing Santa Rosa at San Marin High at 5:30 p.m.

Tomorrow, Novato will meet Rohnert Park at San Marin and Redwood Empire of Sonoma County will play Sonoma at Novato High, both at 5:30. Friday, Northgate will face Terra Linda at Novato and Central Marin will play the Country-Santa Rosa winner at San Marin, both at 5:30 also.

The tournament will conclude next week, with championship games Tuesday and (if necessary) Wednesday, both at Novato at 5:30.

The winner will advance to the Northern California State Tournament beginning July 29 in San Luis Obispo, and the winner of that will go to Wasco, Kern County, for the Pacific Southwest Regional Aug. 8.

Madden: Rookies Are Ahead

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Coach John Madden says his Oakland Raider rookies did so well in early training camp this year that he will be able to start his full squad drills using most of the offensive and defensive plays.

In other years, the Raiders were fed the plays a few at a time, Madden explained Tuesday. "We'd have to go slow so the rookies wouldn't get lost, but they're way ahead this year. One day last week we had a scrimmage and used six different formations."

Wide receiver Rod Sherman, a five-season veteran who caught 12 passes for 187 yards last National Football League season, was still missing from camp and has asked the club to trade him.

DiMaggio Standings

Standings at the half-way mark in the Marin County Joe DiMaggio baseball league:

North — Annex Motors 4-3, Bank of Marin 4-3, Holiday Magic 4-3, Villa Builders 1-6.

SAN RAFAEL IN SENIORS VICTORY, 5-4

Fred Hurst singled over third base to drive in two runs in the fifth inning and give San Rafael a 5-4 victory over Fairfax in a Senior League tournament baseball game yesterday at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Mike Roberts, pitching in relief of injured Jeff Knotts, got the victory.

Tonight at 6 o'clock, San Rafael will play Marinwood in the second round of the double-elimination tournament. Marinwood Monday defeated Hamilton-Loma Verde, 6-5.

The first-round losers, Fairfax and Hamilton-Loma Verde, will collide tomorrow at 6 p.m.

OUT OF LINEUP

Willie Mac Hurt Again

By JOE SARGIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Right about now Willie McCovey must feel as if the whole world is against him.

And who could blame the likeable big first baseman for the San Francisco Giants, because it has not been anything thus far but one big lost season.

McCovey, who started the year coming off knee surgery, broke his right hand in the fourth game. Then, Tuesday night he stopped an inside pitch by John Strohmayer of the Montreal Expos on the right elbow.

Within minutes McCovey had a swelling on the elbow the size of an extra large egg. Worse then that, he was hit less than an inch from the end of a rod which was inserted in his right forearm to facilitate the mending of his broken hand.

McCovey's woe took all the steam out of the Giants and overshadowed a fine, four-hit, 30 shutout by Ron Bryant. The victory was San Francisco's 17th in the last 22 games and kept the Giants moving along in their best move of the year.

But it still all comes back to McCovey, who even on one leg or one arm is the most feared hitter in baseball.

Dr. E.C. Sailer, the Giants physician, said he didn't believe McCovey was hurt seriously but that X-rays would be taken anyway to be certain.

"His arm is a little sore," said Dr. Sailer, "But he was complaining of pain before he was hit. We'll take a closer look at it and keep him out a few days."

McCovey was so upset at this latest in a string of tough blows that he found it hard to talk about the game.

He sat on a table in the trainer's room, his head down and fingering a baseball.

"What can I say," he said, all the time keeping his head bowed and his right hand busy squeezing the ball. "When he first hit me the hand went numb. Now, though, I have all my feeling back in it."

McCovey was a bit miffed at Strohmayer, who took over for Montreal starter and loser Balor Moore at the start of the fifth after the Giants had scored all of their runs, two of them on Garry Maddox' seventh homer.

"I wasn't really mad at Strohmayer," said McCovey. "He was just following orders. His manager (Gene Mauch) has everyone throwing at all the big hitters. Strohmayer isn't wild enough to throw at anyone."

When a batter on one side gets hit by a pitch the usual pattern is to retaliate, and Bryant "obliged" by hitting the first Montreal batter in the top of the sixth.

Guess who that was?

Ron Hunt, of course. Hunt took a soft pitch on his thigh, picked up the ball good naturedly and flipped it to the Giants catcher Dave Rader. The "hit" enabled Hunt to tie Minnie Minoso for the major league record of being hit 192 times.

Hunt, who played for the Giants, took things in stride.

"He (Bryant) threw inside and I tried to get out of the way," he said, winking all the time.

For Bryant, it may have been the best game he's ever pitched in the majors. Three of the four hits he gave up were singles and he seemed to be in charge all the way while striking out four and walking two.

"He got his changeup curve over better than in any other game I've seen him pitch," said Giants skipper Charlie Fox. "He pitched a great game."

It was Bryant's fifth victory in his last six starts and his eighth of the year overall compared to four losses. The eight victories is a major league high for the stocky lefthander.

Giant McDowell's Medical Problems

Sam McDowell was greatly relieved to learn that a numbness in two fingers of his southpaw pitching hand was due to a mild circulatory problem and not connected with his sore left shoulder.

McDowell was examined by a vascular surgeon Monday and yesterday was scheduled to be examined by another specialist for his shoulder problem. The vascular surgeon traced the cause of the finger numbness to a minor circulation problem that can be corrected.

McDowell understandably was a worried man before his visit to the vascular surgeon in Franklin Hospital in San Francisco. In his mind was the case of Jack Sanford.

Some years ago Sanford experienced a frightening freezing of his pitching hand. Sanford's hand would go nmb around the fifth inning. Then, the numbness began to set in earlier — in the fourth and third innings. Finally, Sanford had to face an operation to correct an artery blockage in his shoulder.

McDowell and Sanford became good friends at Cleveland prior to McDowell's trade this year to the Giants for Gaylord Perry and shortstop Frank Duffy. Sanford, after winding up his pitching career with the Giants, became Cleveland's pitching coach.

MCDOWELL DEEPLY admired Sanford not only as an instructor but a pitcher who did his job despite a fearsome worry every time the feeling began to leave his hand.

Still, McDowell, while relieved to learn there is no parallel between his own and Sanford's problem, isn't free of worry. He still must get the medical facts about his shoulder. It was so sore after Sudden Sam's last pitching assignment (in New York July 12) that he said: "I don't know when I'll be able to pitch again."

To keep his shoulder pain under reasonable control, McDowell has resorted to cortisone and even, on one occasion, to acupuncture treatment. Only McDowell knows how many cortisone shots (some sources say more than a dozen) were pumped into his shoulder when he still was with Cleveland last year.

IT'S DOUBTFUL that Gabe Paul, president of the Cleveland ball club, had knowledge of how many cortisone treatments McDowell received last year. Charlie Fox certainly had no knowledge of them when the manager of the Giants urged Horace Stoneham to make the Perry-McDowell deal.

After his second appearance for the Giants this year (April 20 in San Diego against the Padres) McDowell received a cortisone shot from the Padre team physician. Fox didn't know about that. The manager obviously was surprised when baseball writers traveling with the Giants asked him about it. "Ask McDowell," said Fox.

One of the writers did ask McDowell and he avoided a direct answer, talking around the question, finally saying: "Why should that be so important this early in the season?"

McDOWELL WAS quite put out that the subject of a cortisone shot should have been brought up at all.

But now, three months later, the matter of McDowell's sore shoulder is of vital importantce not only to himself but the Giants, too.

Smiling Thomas Returns

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI)—It wouldn't seem like football season without Dallas Cowboys running back Duane Thomas providing at least one predictably unpredictable surprise. Tuesday he provided two.

The recalcitrant Super Bowl star returned to the training camp he mysteriously walked out of last week and indicated in a news conference that his sphinx-like silence to reporters of a year ago may have ended.

"I'm not going to talk for Duane," Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said after a three-hour private meeting with Thomas late Tuesday night.

"I fined him as I would any player that comes in late," Landry said. "The amount of the fine will not be announced."

Thomas walked out of the world champions' training camp late last week after about a 30-minute visit. Cowboys coaches, including Landry, said they had no idea why he left or where he was headed.

Tuesday Thomas called Landry from the running back's home in Dallas and told him to send someone to meet him at the Los Angeles airport. Landry said he would be able to begin practice today.

For a few brief moments, reporters felt Thomas' enforced silence to the news media — which began last season after Thomas reported late in mid-season —was to continue.

"Do you have a statement to make?" some reporters asked.

"Yes," Thomas said.

What is it? they asked.

"Hello," Thomas answered.

Would you like to answer why you were late to training camp?

"No."

Why did you leave?

"Personal reason."

But then the clean-shaven Thomas smiled and said he would answer all questions during the football season "if I have time."

He said he didn't want to talk about his past animosities with the news media.

"That's talking about yesterday," he said. "We all can pay our debts to the past by putting the future in debt to ourselves."

Thomas said he wanted to stay with the Cowboys.

"If I wasn't happy, I wouldn't have come here," he said. "I've been working out. I'v in great shape. I like football because it's a challenge and it's creative."

THIS DAY IN SPORTS

Subdued Ali Spots Lewis Six Pounds

DUBLIN (UPI) — Muhammad Ali conceeded six pounds to Al "Blue" Lewis of Detroit when they weighed in for tonight's heavyweight bout at Croke Park.

Ali, fighting for the second time in 22 days, tipped the scales at 217-1-2 pounds against the 223-1-2 for Lewis.

The former world champion was in a subdued mood when he removed his white robe to step onto the scales in the ballroom of the downtown Gresham Hotel. There was none of the usual ballyhoo that accompanies the normal weigh-in and all he said was: "I'm feeling good and I have no predictions."

Lewis, who was disqualified in his last bout against Argentina's Oscar Bonnavena at Buenos Aires last October, did not stay around to exchange pleasantries and left the hall immediately after he came off the scales.

It was another sunny day and the promoters remained hopeful they will attract the 32,000 fans necessary to break even.

Earlier, Ali said he thought it would not be long before Joe Frazier's pride forces him into agreeing to their rematch for the world heavyweight boxing title.

Collins, Delgado To Fight In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco middleweight Nate Collins, who has not fought in his home city in more than two years, will oppose Raul Delgado of Mexico City Aug. 15 at Civic Auditorium.

The show will be the first here for promoter Babe Griffin, who has staged several successful bouts at the Circle Star Theater in San Carlos. Collins scored an upset knockout of previously unbeaten Eugene Hart of Philadelphia in his last bout and moved back into the ratings at number eight in his division. Delgado is regarded as the middleweight champion of Mexico. Plans for the bout were announced Tuesday.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

No-Hit Gem Evades Arlin

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

If it's Tuesday, don't even dream of a no-hitter.

On Tuesday, July 4, Tom Seaver of the New York Mets had his no-hit bid ended by San Diego with one out in the ninth inning. Last Tuesday, Marty Pattin of the Red Sox also came within two outs of a no-hitter before it was broken up by Oakland.

Last night it was Steve Arlin's turn, and although the San Diego righthander came even closer to notching a line in the record books, he too was thwarted. With two out in the ninth inning, Denny Doyle of the Phils bounced a single over a drawn-in Dave Roberts at third base.

Moments later Arlin lost his shutout as well as he balked Doyle to second and allowed a run-scoring single to Tom Hutton before settling for a 5-1 victory.

"I guess it just wasn't meant to be," shrugged Arlin, who now has hurled three two-hitters and two one-hitters in the last eight weeks. "I had no idea what was going on behind me when Doyle hit the ball. I chalked it up as a 5-3 (a routine third-to-first play). Then I looked around and saw it go over Roberts' head."

Padre Manager Don Zimmer took the blame for moving Roberts in against Doyle, explaining, "I wanted to protect against the swinging bunt. If I leave him alone, he catches the ball."

Doyle, who had a 1-2 count against him when he singled, previously broke up a no-hit bid by Houston's Jerry Reuss in the ninth inning.

Reuss had a four-hitter Tuesday night as the Astros ripped the St. Louis Cardinals, 11-3, to narrow their deficit behind first-place Cincinnati in the National League West to five games. The Reds dropped a 2-1 decision to the Chicago Cubs in 10 innings.

The East Division leading Pittsburgh Pirates also lost by a 4-2 count to the Atlanta Braves, but their margin remained at five games as the runnerup New York Mets were beaten by the Los Angeles Dodgers, 2-1, in 10 innings. In the other NL game, the San Francisco Giants blanked the Montreal Expos, 3-0.

In the American League, Kansas City won two from Cleveland, 6-5 and 11-8, Oakland beat Milwaukee, 4-0, in the first game with the Brewers taking the second 7-4, the Yankees beat Minnesota, 6-0, Boston beat California, 4-1, Baltimore edged Texas, 2-1, in 15 innings and Detroit tripped Chicago, 4-3, in 11 innings.

Suburban Wins, 6-2, On Staub's Hitting

Dennis Staub hit a home run and two doubles and drove in three runs as Suburban Auto Repair defeated Perry's Delicatessen, 6-2, in San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball league play last night at Albert Park.

In other games, Industrial Credit defeated Suburban's "B" team, 6-5; Connection Tavern shaded Sohner Tree Service, 2-1; and Las Gallinas Golf trounced Loose, 12-2.

Nate Colbert drove in three runs for San Diego, two of them with his 21st homer. Arlin, who struck out four batters and walked three, stretched his record to 8-10.

Cesar Cedeno and Lee May hit two-run homers in support of Reuss, who had been traded to Houston by the Cardinals the day before the season opened. Ted Simmons drove in all three St. Louis runs with a bases-loaded double in the fourth inning.

Billy Williams tagged the first pitch thrown to him in the 10th inning by reliever Clay Carroll for his 21st homer to give the Cubs their victory over Cincinnati and snap the Reds' seven game winning streak. Ferguson Jenkins (12-8) went the distance for Chicago, allowing four hits.

Pittsburgh had a five-game winning streak ended as Atlanta rallied for three runs in the fifth against loser Steve Blass. Earl Williams homered for the Braves.

Frank Robinson homered with two out in the 10th inning to give Los Angeles its victory over the Mets.

Tournament Set In Table Tennis

A table-tennis tournament for students aged 10 to 14, sponsored by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department, will be held Friday at 6:30 p.m. at Vallecito School, 50 Nova Albion Way, Terra Linda.

Players may compete in one of two categories — novice or junior expert. A free barbecue will precede the tournament at 5:30. For further information, contact Mrs. Nancy Person at the Community Recreation Center, 1011 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Aparicio Won't Play

BOSTON (UPI)—Luis Aparicio, veteran shortstop of the Boston Red Sox who was voted to the starting American League team in next week's All-Star game in Atlanta, will not play because of a broken finger he suffered three weeks ago.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Space Shortage For More Boats

There's a crisis coming because the demand for recreational facilities is far outpacing the provision of such amenities in this country.

Here are the figures on boating alone: in the past 10 years, the number of people going into boating has increased 25.4 per cent and the number of boats in use has increased 25.1 per cent, yet the marina facilities which accommodate these boats and cater to the needs of their owners have increased only 14.5 per cent.

These statistics indicate that the pressure on present facilities — already overworked — are likely to become intolerable if the ratios persist for a few more years.

There's another question. It was brought up by George Rounds, Assistant Secretary of the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers speaking in Las Vegas earlier this year. The problem is a very emotional and involved one in attempting to balance the needs of the boatman and all other outdoor enthusiasts with the "self-imposed mandate of preserving our environment."

Rounds suggested that additional boating facilities be created by redevelopment rather than the destruction of more shoreline and virgin wetlands. He said that recreational considerations must be a part of urban planning.

Scattered amongst the many questions we are asked are some that show a great concern for the future of boating as a sport available to everyone:

Q. Why don't we, and how can we, livit this fantastic proliferation of boats? They are everywhere. . .

A. Consider for a moment that there are vast forces — and many people — at work already doing this. Think of the increase in restrictive laws and regulations and in costs and taxes. It is much more difficult and costly to own a boat nowadays than it was formerly. Proportionately fewer people have the ability and money to do so. Maybe it is self limiting.

Q. Why don't they force unsafe boats off the water?

A. Regulations will be announced within the next few weeks outlining conditions under which the Coast Guard will be able to do just that. Officers will be given broad powers to board a boat and order hazardous or unsafe conditions to be corrected on the spot or take the offending boat back to dock.

Q. Reading your column gives me the impression that you think boating people are the only ones who matter. Aren't they just a small group?

A. The Boating Industry Associations estimate that about 45,000,000 Americans went boating last year — about one out of five in the nation. They spent $3,610,000,000 for new and used boats, motors, accessories, fuel, equipment, docking, launching, storage and repairs: Is that a small group?

Q. Are clubs a good idea for the future of boating?

A. They are one of the best influences in keeping boating the safest, most interesting sport. Clubs have been instrumental in setting up better facilities in thousands of communities and getting better planning for the future. Write to the Outboard Boating Club, 401 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60611 for the booklet, "How to Organize for More Fun Afloat."

Ruling In Hull Case Expected Next Week

TORONTO (UPI) — Hockey Canada officials are expected to rule next week on Bobby Hull's eligibility to play on the team representing Canada in next fall's hockey series with the Soviet Union.

Douglas Fisher, chairman of the Hockey Canada Executive Committee, said in a telegram to news media Tuesday that a meeting of the organization's directors to review Hull's disputed status would be held "as soon as it can be arranged."

However, he said, due to the "present dispersal" of the members, it would probably be 10 days before the meeting could be held.

Fisher said the session was necessary because Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau had decided not to "hear arguments regarding the matter from the (National Hockey League) Players' Association and the National Hockey League."

He did not elaborate.

Trudeau turned down a request Monday by NHL President Clarence Campbell to meet and discuss the Hull case.

Hull was one of 35 players named last week to Team Canada, which will meet the Russian team in an eight-game series in September.

However, the former Chicago Black Hawks' superstar was deemed ineligible to play on the team when it was revealed that only players signed to NHL contracts before Aug. 13 could skate against the Soviet Union. Hull recently signed a multimillion dollar contract with the Winnipeg Jets of the newly-formed World Hockey Association.

Hockey fans across Canada have protested Hull's exclusion from the team. Trudeau has expressed sympathy with the protests, saying Canada should assemble the best possible team to send against the Russians.

Hockey Canada, formed two years ago to lift Canada's international hockey prestige, is composed of representatives of the NHL, the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, the federal and provincial governments, the NHL Players' Association and the business community.

Blacktin First At Finish Line

BAYONA, Spain (AP) — After nearly 19 days at sea, the 73-foot ketch Blackfin became the first boat to complete the 2,700-mile Bermuda-to-Bayona yacht race, crossing the finish line Tuesday morning.

The Class A yacht, skippered by Kenneth De Meuse of Alameda, was at sea for 18 days, 19 hours and 15 minutes. The finish was about four days behind schedule due to light winds in the Atlantic Ocean.

Nine of the 45 other yachts in the race were expected to reach the finish by noon today.

Race officials said class winners and the overall winner — based on handicaps — would not be known for several days.

Winnipeg Releases Linebacker Chaney

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP) — The Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League released eight players yesterday, including linebacker Dave Chaney from California State University, San Jose (then San Jose State).

Chaney, voted Northern California defensive player of the year in 1971, had been drafted low by the Kansas City Chiefs but went to Canada because he decided he had a better chance there.

Just Look! Bra Business Getting Back Into Shape

NEW YORK (UPI)—The brassiere is back.

Regardless of what your eye may tell you during a stroll along Fifth Avenue on a given summer day, most likely there's a brassiere under that clingy sweater or body shirt and, to the bra manufacturers, there lies the commercial future.

The "natural" look has boosted the bra business which, according to best estimates, amounts to about $700 million a year. For a while, when the women libbers were clamoring for equality and taking part in bra-burning demostrations, the industry got the jitters.

All that's changed, according to Mercy Dobell, editor of Body Fashions Magazine, who says "the bra business is looking up tremendously." Miss Dobell attributes the success to high fashion and women's desire to look natural.

"However," she told UPI, "today's fashions don't want that saggy look. They require the softly shaped look, without a lot of ribs and seams."

Women's foundation wear long has been the subject of discussion, from the days of whalebone stays and tight cinched waists to the liberated look of the late 60s. But, the bra manufacturers report, the birth control pill and ever changing fashions brought about new dimensions to the industry.

A spokesman for Bali bras who said sales were "up significantly," added that a contributing factor was an increase in the average breast size. "The average bra cup used to be a "BB" bust now it's more like a 'C'," the spokesman said. The "pill" had a lot to do with such growth, the spokesmen added.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Cenco Instruments Has Good Future

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Some time ago I was advised to buy Cenco Instruments on the NYSE. I did not have the money then but do now. Would this still be a good stock for longer-term investment? — D.E.

A. A leader in medical scientific equipment, Cenco Inst., through acquisitions is engaged in several promising growth areas. The company is placing more emphasis on health-related fields, as evidenced by the rising proportion of total revenues these areas are contributing and by the firm's plan to drop "Instruments" from its corporate title.

The company's latest move involves an agreement to purchase Life Labs. of Calif., a leading producer of natural skin care items and health food supplements.

Over the years, Cenco has compiled a strong record, and fiscal 1972 has extended this pattern. For the 9 months ended January, earnings per share gained 13 per cent on a like increase in net sales and revenues.

Results for the full year (ended April 30) are anticipated in the $1.20-$1.25-a-share area (adjusted for the 2-for-1 split) and estimates for fiscal 1973 range in the $1.40 area. Moderately priced on these estimates and offering excellent future potential, Cenco is recommended for long-term appreciation.

Q. I bought Apeco Corp. in 1963 at $15 a share. Should I sell or hold now? I don't need the money. — C.A.

A. With worthwhile earnings gains in prospect, Apeco (NYSE) shares carry speculative recovery appeal and should be held.

Despite a 17 per cent profit decline in the company's 1972 second quarter, full-year results are still expected to hit previously projected levels. For the second period (ended May), Apeco earned 15 cents a share versus the previous year's 18 cents, while sales climbed over 17 per cent to $33.2 million.

First-half results were reported at 27 cents a share versus the 30 cents netted in fiscal 1971. It is believed that nearly all of this decline occurred in the business systems group.

For the year, 75 cents-80 cents a share is looked for, a significant improvement over fiscal 1971's 64 cents.

Market Closes Higher After Early Enthusiasm

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market closed today with a moderate gain after starting out with enthusiasm on news of Henry Kissinger's trip to Paris for secret peace talks. Trading was fairly active.

Advances led declines by about 200 issues among the more than 1,730 crossing the tape.

Prices were mixed to slightly higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Kissinger, President Nixon's adviser, met with North Vietnamese negotiators at Paris to discuss settlement of the war.

Analysts also said investors might have found encouragement in the Egyptian ousters of Soviet military advisers. But uncertainties over inflation, rising interest rates and possible tax reforms weighed again on the market.

Occidental Petroleum opened late, traded for less than an hour and gained 2 3-4 to 18 1-4 on a staggering 1,409,800 shares. Trading was halted again because of an influx of orders.

This issue drew buyers late Monday when it was learned the company had worked out a five-year agreement with the Soviet Union and also had made a second major oil discovery off the coast of Nigeria.

Bagley Is Seeking Cabin Extensions

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Acting to protect an exclusive enclave of 13 private cabins on public property in Mount Tamalpais State Park, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, yesterday moved to weaken a bill ending the special privilege.

The amendments were to be pushed today in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee when it hears the bill (SB 682) by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

Bagley said he was acting on behalf of "friends of persons who have leases there." He declined to identify the "friends," saying there was "concern by some people over the precipitous cancellation of these leases, particularly where fairly extensive improvements have been made."

Bagley's amendments would extend the leases until the end of 1974, and order a state study of their future use after that date.

Behr, who has said "there is no justification for private privileges on public lands," said yesterday that extending the leases was "not necessary."

The senator said he will refuse to accept Bagley's amendments as his own, but still would push for passage of the bill even if the committee tacks on the Bagley amendments.

The cabins are in Steep Ravine on land the state bought in 1960. The entrance road to the area is kept locked.

The renters of the cabins pay $500 a year for their exclusive use.

Bayview Schools To Give Awards

San Quentin's Bayview Schools will award 444 diplomas and certificates of achievement at graduation exercises at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the San Quentin Chapel.

The awards include five associate of arts degrees, 103 high school diplomas, 32 elementary diplomas, 20 literacy certificates, 34 vocational trade completion certificates, two joint apprenticeship certificates and 190 independent study course certificates.

Principal speaker will be Stanley Jacobs, retired Bayview Schools English teacher.

Tidelands Suit Fund Is Endorsed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A $166,000 appropriation enabling the state to pursue a lawsuit involving vast San Francisco Bay tidelands ownership yesterday was endorsed by the Senate Judiciary Committee and sent to an uncertain fate before the finance committee.

The finance committee is chaired by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, who reportedly killed the appropriation in the closed conference committee that drafted the state's new budget.

The author of the bill (AB1479), Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, has charged that the appropriation was killed "at the request of the landowner-litigant who wants to cripple the ability of the state to preserve the public trust provisions of 100-year-old tideland grants."

The suit is against Westbay Associates, which plans massive development on some 10,000 acres of tidelands it claims. The suit also would affect another 30,000 acres claimed by other developers.

'Wild Rivers' Bill Hearing Due Monday

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to preserve North Coast "wild rivers," stalled for four months, finally has been set for hearing by the Senate Finance Committee.

The bill, SB 107 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, is opposed by the chairman of the committee, Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka. The chairman has virtually unlimited power to decide when — and if — a bill is heard.

The hearing, sometime Monday after 9:30 a.m. in Room 5007 of the Capitol, was announced by Collier only after Behr took the irregular step of publicly asking Collier before his committee on Monday when his bill would be heard.

The Legislature is rushing to recess on July 28 until after the November election, but Behr insisted he would try to win Senate passage of his bill before recess. A similar bill by Behr was killed on the Senate floor last year after strong opposition by Collier.

Behr said he was "raasonably sure" it will clear Collier's own finance committee again this year.

Editorials throughout the state and a flood of letters from Collier's district had demanded that he permit the bill to be heard, Behr noted.

Behr Bills Beaten In Committee

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Bills barring discrimination against children in housing and limiting land speculation at taxpayers' expense have been killed in Senate committees.

The bills were introduced by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, at the request of the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The first, SB 1181, got only five of the eight votes needed to clear the health and welfare committee. It was opposed by the California Real Estate Association, Apartment Owners Association and Western Mobile Homeowners Association.

The other bill, SB 752, got only two of the five needed in the revenue and taxation committee. There was no public debate, but developers and real estate interests lobbied against the bill.

The bill, which Behr said he will push again next year, would limit to two years the period between the declaration of property as tax delinquent and its actual deeding to the state. The current five-year period allows developers to postpone payment of property taxes at a lower penalty interest rate than if they paid the taxes from commercial loans.

Behr also has dropped a bill (SB 1487) to broaden the power of judges to adjust support payments in divorce cases. It was asked by Marin County Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick, but the California Council on Justice said it could do the same thing administratively.

Land Sales Hit By Legislation

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation that will bar Marin Municipal Water District from selling any of its vast open lands without a referendum has been signed into law by acting Gov. Ed Reinecke.

The measure, AB 328 by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, prevents any county, city or public district from selling watershed protection lands without putting a proposed sale to a vote of the electorate.

Moves in the past by Marin Municipal Water District to start selling some of its 18,099 acres stirred public protest. District property extends around the shoulders of Mount Tamalpais into West Marin.

Streptococcus Is Week's Top Disease

Streptococcus infection topped the list of communicable diseases reported in Marin last week with 83 cases, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Gonorrhea followed with 28 cases, syphilis five, infectious hepatitis four, mumps three and measles and salmonella, one each.

All Can Benefit From Safety Rules

Scarcely a weekend passes without some boating or swimming tragedy or near tragedy in the ocean or bays that surround Marin.

An excursion for a family of six turned to tragedy last weekend in Tomales Bay when the skiff capsized, bringing death to one and a close call for the others.

The seemingly calm waters of the bay and our familiarity with boating all too often lull us into carelessness and complacency. All of us can use constant reminders on boating and water safety.

Many are unaware, or tend to forget, that free courses on boating safety are offered each year as a public service by the United States Power Squadron and the UnitedStates Coast Guard Auxiliary.

The classes, usually starting in the fall and continuing through winter and spring, are well publicized in advance through the various media. Everyone engaged in boating of any kind should take advantage of these safety courses, and those who completed such a course in the past could benefit from refresher classes.

The fact that a fisherman or a duck hunter has plied Tomales Bay without incident in the past is no assurance that he can relax.

A quick review of the boating accidents in Tomales Bay over the years shows the suddenness with which tragedy strikes.

In almost every case, the weather seems ideal for boating or fishing. There are a few whitecaps but no large waves or other warning. Then all of a sudden out of nowhere comes this one big breaker to capsize the boat and sweep the occupants under.

Tomales is not the only danger spot. Many accidents are also reported at the cliffs of Fort Cronkhite, where huge waves have plucked fishermen off the rocks, and at Point Reyes where picnickers and beach combers have been swept out to sea by big breakers.

It's too late to lecture and moralize after lives have been lost, but the incidents do serve as tragic reminders of the importance of water safety rules and the need for constant alert.

Oh, But They Do

Perhaps you have heard that the reason a raccoon washes its food is that it has no salivary glands. The washing is supposed to wet the food and make it slide down easier.

After two years of dedicated raccoon watching in our Marin backyard, we can tell our readers definitely, without referring to a raccoon anatomy book, that raccoons do have salivary glands. Also, only occasionally do they wash their food — a tale we imagine derives from thair habit of groping for crayfish on the stream bottoms.

And how do we know raccoons have salivary glands? Because they eat large quantities of dry, itchy dog food and almost invariably wait until they are finished to drink — and then they drink very deeply. Almost conclusive evidence of salivary glands. Otherwise, they'd never be able to get the dry food down.

Bible Seems To Support Need For Death Penalty

By RUS WALTON

In a statewide volunteer effort, proponents of an initiative to restore the death penalty in California collected more than 1,250,000 signatures. More than one million signatures were secured during the final, all-out three-week thrust.

It was the most spectacularly successful petition drive in state history. And, it was a dramatic public reaction to the California Supreme Court's abolition of capital punishment.

When the checking process was completed, clerks had verified more than 950,000 signatures — almost double the number needed to qualify the initiative for this November's ballot.

MUCH OF THE CREDIT for the success goes to the California Correctional Officers Assn., the prison guards, their wives and families. Their motivation is obvious: Under the Supreme Court's ban of the death penalty, they have the most to lose.

As two-time murderer Leo Estrada Robles said from his cell on Folosm Prison's death row, abolition of the death penalty is "a license to kill" — especially prison guards. "After all," asked Robles, "what has a life-time prisoner got to lose?"

It looked, for a while, as though all the work to qualify the initiative was wasted when the U.S. Supreme Court came out with a confusing decree on capital punishment. Some claimed the Court had flatly declared capital punishment unconstitutional.

Chief Justice Warren Burger set the record straight.

"THE COURT has not ruled capital punishment is per se violative of the 8th Amendment (cruel and unusual punishment); nor has it ruled that it is barred for any particular class or classes of crime."

"It is clear," stressed Burger, "that if the state legislatures and the congress wish to maintain the availability of capital punishment, significant statuatory changes will have to be made."

And that, as California Attorney General Evelle Younger pointed out, is what the death penalty initiative is all about: passage of the death penalty initiative would restore capital punishment in certain mandatory cases (such as the murder of a prison guard by a life-termer) and permit the legislature to act in other cases in accord with the U.S. Supreme Court's holdings.

"The death penalty initiative" asserted Younger, "is more important than ever."

SOME OPPONENTS of capital punishment take to the Scriptures to defend their position: "Thou Shalt not kill". Biblical scholars believe the original Hebrew should more properly be translated as "Thou shalt not murder". But, the opposition refuses to distinguish between the crime of murder and the state's duty to protect law-abiding citizens from those who would destroy their lives.

It's like State Sen. Clark Bradley, R-San Jose, said. After listening to an Episcopal bishop's harrangue about the civil rights of the convicted murderers, Senator Bradley asked:

"Can you say a kind word for the victims?" Or, the future victims?

WITHOUT GETTING into a Scripture-quoting contest, the Holy Bible seems to make it clear that capital punishment is a necessary and proper deterrent. Deuteronomy 19:19:

"Do unto him just as he had schemed to do to his brother and clear away what is bad in your midst. So those who remain will hear and be afraid and they will never do anything bad like this in your midst."

Further, the Scriptures delineate between accidental death (manslaughter) and premeditated (first degree) murder. Deut. 19: 4,11:

" . . . in the case of a manslayer . . . (who) strikes his fellow man without knowing it and was no hater of him . . . he shall live."

"But, in case there should happen to be a man hating his fellow man, and he has lain in wait for him and has risen up against him and struck him mortally so that he dies, the elders shall fetch him and deliver him into the hand of the avenger of blood, and he must die."

"Here's another oldie. 'The customer is always right.' "

"Like I've been saying, McGovern Can't Win!"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Father Grateful To Hospital Staff

I believe I owe a public statement of thanks to the staff of the University of California hospitals in San Francisco. Because of their efforts my daughter Meg will celebrate her seventh birthday next month. Three times in the past year they have kept her alive through severe asthma attacks. But my gratitude is not just for their competence; beyond that is their supreme compassion.

A single incident should suffice. On Feb. 4 both of Meg's lungs collapsed. A large tube was put down her throat to provide oxygen — it knocked out two front teeth. Vacuum tubes were inserted in both sides of her chest, and both her arms were immobilized so she could receive medicine intravenously.

After two days she became sufficiently conscious to be scared. The oxygen tube was removed on the third day, but it left her throat too sore to talk. The next morning I found Meg smiling, with a dime clutched in her only free hand. She could barely whisper that the tooth fairy had left the dime for her two lost teeth. I don't know who left that dime — perhaps a nurse, or one of the doctors; I do know the smile on Meg's face meant joy in her heart.

Parking Fine Is Far Out Of Line

The parking fine of $2 is way out of line. It is no wonder than prospective customers by-pass San Rafael and head for Northgate.

All meters should be for at least two-hour parking and a maximum parking fine of $1. No one can make a substantial purchase within an hour's time.

There would be many occasions that even though they would put in for two hours, they would only use an hour and fifteen minutes or an hour and a half — BUT at least they wouldn't be on edge about getting a $2 ticket.

If the City was so worried about getting in revenue, they should have gotten off the dime and did something about the old Court House property. They could have been collecting a good revenue all these years.

It would behoove the city manager and/or councilmen to take a stroll down 4th street and look into the cause of all the empty stores and also empty stores to come in the future.

Instead of seeing what the merchants can do for them, they ought to see what they could do for the merchants.

They Don't Care About Your Health

Warning, your neighbors may be dangerous to your health . . . We have polled the Novato homeowners associations (by calling their presidents), and found that some favor and some oppose joint commercial usage of Hamilton Air Force Base.

Fine, a difference of opinion is healthy, but three favoring groups gave a most unhealthy reason: "we don't live near Hamilton so the noise won't bother us". (Oh, come on now). An analogy to this kind of thinking is the guy who won't call the police when his neighbor (and not he) is being robbed.

Remember, in 1939 the rest of the world let Hitler dismember Czechoslovakia because it wasn't their country and the result of that "it doesn't hurt me" reasoning was World War II.

The slogan of these fuzzy thinking neighbors of ours must be: "Today Hamilton, tomorrow the world."

Several Ways To Deal With Skunks

The only way to skunk a skunk is to set up counter-acting smells or odors, and making entrances to basements, etc., entrance tight.

Sulfur, creosote, and moth balls placed around studs and pipes under the house . . . may do the job.

Away from the house, most impossible, unless one desires to kill the skunk . . . then this bang up job may release odors for a long time to come.

My farmer friend out here says skunks are the best mouser and rodent predator around . . . but once underneath the house, and they let go from some excitement, they can raise you out of bed and out of the house for the next eight hours or longer . . . at most irritable moments.

The skunk is a victim of their own protective means and will not let go unless sick or extremely provoked, more so when located in confined places; on this account the skunk and I see each other once in a while without anything happening. Good luck with this problem.

P.S. There is always tomato juice . . . and our cat has had to have this bath several times.

Marine Mammals Need Protection

A strong bill to protect marine mammals is essential at the present time. Unfortunately the House passed a weak one.

Senator Cranston and other senators are sponsoring amendments to strengthen the bill. One provides enforcement be put under the Department of the Interior (a conservation agency) rather than under Commerce, which is set up to help business.

Another important amendment provides for a five-year ban on killing marine mammals, and Congressional veto power for 10 years on their slaughter.

In addition amendments are being proposed to ban killing of sea mammals by commercial fishermen (they are slaughtered in tuna nets by the thousands), ban importation of commercial fish caught by a method involving sea mammal slaughter, increase penalties for violation, and to stop the United States from killing Pribilof seals during the moratorium.

These amendments are much needed if the bill is to have "teeth". Hopefully Senator Tunney will support them too.

TODAY'S WORLD

"Anything worth watching tonight?"

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, July 19, the 201st day of 1972 with 165 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Cancer.

American firearms inventor Samuel Colt was born July 19, 1814.

On this day in history:

In 1848 "bloomers" were modeled to the delegates of the first woman's rights convention in Seneca Falls, New York. They were named after Mrs. Amelia Jenks Bloomer.

In 1870 the Franco-Prussian War began.

In 191 German armies began retreating across the Marne River in France as the end of World War I neared.

Contrasting Styles Make For Exciting November Slugfest

MIAMI BEACH — The Democratic presidential nominee, Sen. George McGovern, comes at the right time in American politics to serve a needed purpose.

Regardless of whether his election would be desirable or undesirable, his nomination seems to me a good thing for very special reasons.

Voters ought not to have to put up with a tweedledum-tweedledee choice for President. They won't this year.

THE NATION NEEDS to have a clear opportunity to affirm or change basic directions in both domestic and foreign policy. We can do so this fall.

Sen. McGovern offers the kind of sweeping alternative in purpose, policy and priorities which will make a meaningful presidential decision possible this November. That's what we need.

His nomination reflects much of the temper of the times. It is a response to a considerable voter demand for fundamental change, to a considerable voter protest against things as they are.

I AM NOT advocating McGovern's election. Let's hear out the campaign. I am simply saying that his nomination by the Democratic Party gives an urgently needed, well-timed choice of national policies. Let the voters decide.

The support which both Sen. McGovern and Gov. Wallace generated reveals that there is a mounting demand for change. Many voters are disillusioned, alienated and distrustful of all government. This distrust has been growing. It rests in large part on the feeling that no matter who is elected, few things change at all. The differences between many presidential candidates seem slim.

The differences between President Nixon and Sen. McGovern are not slim. They are many and deep.

McGOVERN WOULD radically cut defense spending, would radically reduce U.S. forces nearly everywhere in the world, including Western Europe, would increase taxes on middle-class incomes and up, would seek a substantial redistribution of income through tax changes. These proposals made even such liberal Democrats as Senators Humphrey and Muskie shudder.

But many voters do not shudder at all over these McGovern promises. They were sufficiently determined and numerous to bring about the McGovern nomination. This is good because it is going to give the whole nation the opportunity to vote these views up or down.

IN THIS CAMPAIGN two crucial matters are at stake. One is who is to be President. The other is what policies, purposes and priorities are to govern government.

This is why a Mc-Govern-Nixon confrontation is the right kind of choice to have to make. It will put a great decision making in the hands of the voters.

This will make for the best possible kind of presidential election.

It will provide the kind of choice voters should be allowed to make.

IT WILL HELP greatly to bring alienated citizens back into the political process. They shared in nominating; they shared in drafting the platform. They can now share in the November verdict.

These are the reasons I think the McGovern-Nixon contest will be a healthy, enlightening, enlivening political event.

It will clear up a lot of things. It will make this presidential election excitingly vital.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Will George McGovern Repeat The 1964 Goldwater Debacle?

MIAMI BEACH — The renowned Harvard political philosopher Robert Benchley is given credit for a thesis that has been an operating rule for presidential candidates for many campaigns past. It said:

"The pledge of a delegate to a national convention is embossed on tissue paper and, when rolled up, can be exploded by pulling little strings at either end. Inside will be found a motto reading: 'If in January you were born, then blow a toot upon this horn. I love you.' This makes it clear which candidate they are supporting. The rule is that each delegate must either keep his pledge or else give it to someone who will keep it for him until he gets back."

PROF. BENCHLEY'S definition was laid down just before the conventions of 1932, when Franklin Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover were about to be nominated. It applied to Republican politics until eight years ago, when it died at the Cow Palace in Daly (no relation) City, Calif. On the Democratic side, it passed into history this week at the convention hall in Miami Beach. It was done in by neither the cold night fogs through the Golden Gate nor the heavy mildewiness of South Florida in the summertime. It simply could not survive in a climate of holier than thouness.

Delegates who are holier than thee and me do not emboss their pledges on tissue; they engrave them on stone, and they do not leave them lying around where they might get switched to another candidate. They do not compromise on either candidates or platforms. They do not win conventions or elections very often, either. But they nominated Barry Goldwater in 1964 and then nominated George McGovern Wednesday night.

THE DIFFERENCES between those two conventions are more visible than the similarities, which are buried in old newspaper files. Anybody can see the earnest young housewives, the casually dressed students, the black leaders in dashikis and the smashing Yvonne Braithwaite on the podium running a convention and know that whatever it is, it is not a gathering of Goldwater fans.

You have to leaf back to remember how the Goldwater lieutenants in San Francisco perceived that their hero's nomination could be threatened only if they faltered on some early procedural or platform test. Therefore they passed the word to stomp on every question brought up by the opposition. Platform night at San Francisco lasted eight hours, eight minutes — which did not match this week's 11 hours, 22 minutes, but was tortuous enough.

EVERY PROPOSAL for platform revision was defeated. A respectable civil rights plank lost by 897 to 409 on a roll call. Nelson Rockefeller, governor of the then largest state, was shouted down when he spoke in support of a plank condemning the John Birch Society and other extremist groups. The Goldwater momentum continued, and nothing was in doubt until the morning after his nomination.

With Miss Braithwaite handling proceedings with machine-gun authority, the Democrats here knocked down potentially embarrassing planks on abortion, homosexuality, welfare and tax reform. The action added speed to the McGovern drive following his breakthrough on credentials opening night. And now he himself is face to face with his morning after.

IT MAY BE TOO late already for him to halt the parallel between his and Goldwater's campaigns. Dismayed at what has happened here, one Muskie delegate told me in a taxi on Collins Avenue yesterday morning that he was going to vote for Mr. Nixon. There are many like him. George Wallace's spokesmen were mumbling about his going the third-party route despite the courtesy with which the convention managers and nearly all the delegates treated him when he spoke from his wheelchair on the podium.

And yet these are not a majority — I suspect not even a majority of the disappointed losers in this convention. That is not an estimate I would have made before the opening gavel. But since that moment there has sprouted an unlikely mutual tolerance, just short of camaraderie, among Wallace advocates of nuke 'em foreign policy, McGovern apologists for draft dodgers and muffled many in between.

OF COURSE the winners are not about to return to the flexible politics that underlay the Benchley definition set forth above. But among Democrats, because as a party they are in the habit of winning, there always seems some hope, and therefore some reason for trying to get together. McGovern and his inner circle made it clear a very few days back that they would be bad losers if they lost, might go off in a holy huff. But now they have won, they have the chance to make their party forget that petulance — and they have the Goldwater example as a reference point if they do not.

School Board Aspirant Says Cards Stacked Against Him

The San Rafael City Council emerged from a late hour closed session last April 3 to announce that Paul K. McMullen had been tapped to fill a vacancy on the city's board of education.

Carl J. (Red) Brown, a former member of the board who had sought the position, later charged the council with making a political appointment.

HOW DID McMullen, an able but relatively inexperienced man, receive a board seat over Brown, a two-term veteran of the board and former chairman of the city's parks and recreation department?

Brown and McMullen, along with housewife Marie J. Sessi, were chosen by the council as the three top contenders for the post out of a field of 10 candidates.

The council conducted two secret ballots at the closed session. The city fathers deadlocked on Brown and McMullen on the first vote. Mrs. Sessi was eliminated from consideration.

McMullen emerged victorious by a 3-2 tally on the second ballot.

BROWN NOW SAYS that the deck was stacked against him from the beginning. "McMullen had two votes locked up from the start," he said.

And though the council denies it, he may have a point.

As revelaed in tha Independent-Journal last week, McMullen is a co-worker of Councilman Harry A. Barbier at Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. in San Francisco. Both men work as public affairs officers for the corporation.

McMullen was also active in Councilman John A. Miskimen's 1967 election campaign.

Both councilmen admit they voted for McMullen but did so because of a need of new blood on an old board.

BOTH DENY any conflict of interest.

"Brown's tenure on the board was lackluster," Miskimen said, agreeing with Barbier that McMullen was "the superior candidate."

But another councilman told the I-J that the McMullen affair has proved to be politically embarrassing.

"I don't know if I would have voted for McMullen if I had known about his tie with the Miskimen campaign," the councilman reflected.

"It's just not good to get too many from one company or campaign into the city family," he said.

THE COUNCILMAN'S concern is well taken, especially in light of news that city father and phone worker Barbier has embarked on a campaign to move Ma Bell personnel into key governmental posts in San Rafael and Mill Valley.

Brown, elected to the board of education in 1963, topped the field of candidates in winning reelection in 1967. He decided not to seek a third term last year, then changed his mind when an appointive position opened later.

"AT MY INTERVIEW for the position, one councilman was eating a hamburger," Brown fumed the other day. "The whole thing's unjust . . . it was as if the council had already made up its mind."

What's the outcome of it all?

Brown has decided to challenge Barbier in the April council race.

He may have a hard time, however. Barbier has a built-in constituency of at least 450 telephone co-workers in San Rafael.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Whatever Happened To School Accountability

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Whatever happened to accountability?

Last year and year before, "accountability" was the great rallying cry for all those concerned over failures of the American public school system. President Nixon urged it. Wilson C. Riles advocated it as he campaigned for California superintendent of public instruction. The schools were to be reformed by making them accountable for results. They were to start measuring output as well as input.

Just how to go about making the schools accountable generated a lot of discussion. Various approaches were discussed — among them, legislation.

A FEW BILLS aimed at forcing accountability on California schools showed up last year in the Legislature. Only one of them made it into law: a bill by Assemblyman John Stull, R-Encinitas, which was designed to revise teacher tenure laws so that newly hired teachers would be on probation until they showed they could get results, and could be put back on probation if they began to fall down on the job.

However, these teacher accountability features were amended out of Stull's bill during a series of committee hearings, principally in the Senate Education Committee. As passed, it did nothing to promote accountability.

PROPONENTS OF planned program budgeting pushed that as a means toward accountability. Such budgeting, they claimed, would show where the school dollar was getting the most results. But PPBS rapidly got sidetracked into a scheme for promoting esoteric behavioral goals. Committees in school districts still are trying to formulate such goals, with a set of state guidelines that sounds like neo-Deweyism or a prospectus for Summerhill — a far cry from accountability.

Two assemblymen named Greene tried last year to legislate some school accountability.

ASSEMBLYMAN LEROY F. Greene, D-Sacramento, introduced two bills for this purpose. One called for district boards to adopt minimum academic standards in reading and mathematics which would be required for graduation from sixth and 12th grades. Such standards, it specified, "shall be qualitative in nature rather than relating to quantitative measures such as the number of credit hours attained as the result of attendance in various courses of study." It also required the districts to publich annual reports on how well such standards were being met.

This bill died in the Assembly Education Committee, of which Leroy Greene was chairman. A majority of its members did not share his belief in accountability.

Leroy Greene's second bill tried the "carrot" approach. It authorized the state superintendent to waive any provision of the Education Code for districts whose elementary school pupils achieved specified results in reading and mathematics on state-adopted tests. This would have freed schools to use any method of instruction and any type of school organization if they could show results. It, too, died in Greene's own committee.

THE OTHER Assemblyman Greene — Bill Greene, D-Los Angeles — had a simpler scheme for making the schools accountable. His AB 56 provided: "The governing board of a school district shall pass or promote a pupil to any successive higher grade or permit the pupil's graduation from high school solely on the basis of his achievement in the course of study provided for in this division ... and the age of the pupil shall not be taken into consideration for such purposes."

No more automatic promotions! No more blather about keeping the child with his "peer group" whether he learns anything or not!

But Bill Greene's measure was killed by the same committee that nixed Leroy Greene's.

THIS YEAR, not a single bill that seeks to impose accountability on schools was introduced in the Legislature. The effort to reform the schools by making them accountable appears to have died an early death.

Japan Considering Debt Repayment

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan is considering a lump sum repayment to the United States of $152 million to erase a debt which has been outstanding since World War II, it was reported today.

The Kyodo News Agency said the Foreign Ministry is making plans for settlement of the debt as one means of alleviating Japan's large foreign exchange holdings and easing the U.S. balance of payments deficit in trade with Japan.

Senate Stands Against Hitchhikers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate sent to the Assembly Monday on a 23-4 vote a bill prohibiting hitchhikers from catching rides on freeway on-ramps.

PG&E Slapped With Giant Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A retired federal employe has filed a $136 million damage suit charging Pacific Gas and Electric Co. has been selling its products illegally in San Francisco since 1939.

John P. Gifford, a former General Accounting Office employe, filed the class action Monday in superior court, asking $100 million in refunds for the utility's San Francisco customers and $36 million for the city itself.

His suit contends the city charter requires approval by voters before a public utility can be given a franchise and that no such vote was taken although the Board of Supervisors approved an ordinance granting the franchise.
